MISPLACED SWITCH.

Terrible Railroad Accident Occurred Yesterday

ELEVEN PEOPLE WERE KILLED

The Cause of the Accident May Never Be Known. as Engineer and Fireman of the One Train Are Dead.

DEATH WAS BUSY IN ONE HOUR

Trenton, Ont., Nov. 16.—A Grand Trunk express train bound for Toronto crashed into a moving freight train near Murry Hill crossing, two miles west of there, at 3:30 yesterday morning, and several cars were smashed almost to splinters. So far as known eleven people were killed and a dozen or more seriously injured. A misplaced switch was the cause of the accident, the west bound train taking the wrong track, on which was the east bound freight.

The train which left Montreal at 8 o'clock last night consisted of express, mail and baggage cars, a second class car, one first class coach and two Pullman sleepers. The second class car was next to the baggage car and ahead of the first class coach and sleepers. It was pretty well filled with people, there being twenty or more passengers in it and hardly any of them escaped without injury.

Between Belleville and Murry Hill crossing the road is single tracked, the only piece of single track between Toronto and Montreal. At Murry Hill crossing the west bound express usually leaves the single track and takes the double track, and it was about a mile and a half west of this point where the accident occurred.

Whether the signals were right or not yesterday morning will never be known. The engineer and fireman of the wrecked train are both dead. Both engines were totally destroyed and the freight engine was thrown completely over the passenger engine into the ditch beyond.

The engineer and fireman of the freight engine, Thomas Ivens and Alex Toppin, both of Toronto, jumped and escaped with slight injuries. W. H. Brady, engineer, of Belleville who were in charge of the passenger engine, were killed.

The greatest destruction was wrought in the second class car. The baggage car was driven into and almost completely through it, the passengers being crushed and mangled underneath the timbers of the car. The mail car was forced right on top of the baggage car and the express car was partially wrecked. The first class car was uninjured, as was also the two sleepers, although the passengers were awakened by the shock. The work of pulling out the dead and injured was commenced immediately, but it was late this morning before all the bodies were gotten out.

Some of them were so horribly mangled that recognition was almost impossible. The injured were taken to the hospital at Belleville.

That Loan Raised by Don Carlos.

MADRID, November 16.—The Imparcial yesterday commenting on the loan which Don Carlos, the pretender to the Spanish throne, is said to have raised in London, says:

"Evidently the English are abetting an outbreak of civil war in Spain with the object of securing additional territory at Gibraltar. The Americans employed the same methods to become masters of Cuba."

The Statue to General Hartranft.

Harrisburg, Nov. 16.—A meeting of the Hartranft commission was held here this evening at which the statue of General John F. Hartranft in Capitol park was accepted. The statue will be unveiled with elaborate ceremonies next spring.

May Carry Typhoid.

Typhoid fever is generally regarded at the present day, along with cholera and some other diseases, as belonging to the class of "water-bone" affections. In other words, it is believed that the germs of such diseases are carried, and perhaps propagated, in water. There is little doubt that this theory of typhoid fever is correct, and that in tracing any extended epidemic of the disease to its source we must first of all examine into the condition of the water supply

Drinking water has been proved to be the cause of the spread of typhoid fever in many epidemics in this country and England, but there is little comfort in this for those who habitually drink something stronger than water, because although during an epidemic the drinking water may be made safely by boiling. This is not enough.

If the water is contaminated the germs may be introduced into the body while brushing the teeth or washing the face. Or, again, salads and fruits which are eaten raw may be contaminated by the water in which they are washed. Typhoid fever has sometimes been spread in a city whose water supply was above reproach by means of milk or ice.

Milk need not be water in order to become a vehicle for typhoid germs; the germs may be introduced into cans and bottles while these are being washed in water drawn from a contaminated well or brook at the dairy. Although destroyed by boiling, typhoid germs will resist a freezing temperature for a long time, and have been found in ice cut from a pond poisoned with sewerage containing the bacilli of this disease.

Another means of the spread of typhoid has recently been discovered in oysters. Oystermen frequently place oysters in brackish water near the mouth of a creek or river in order to fatten them before they are brought to market. If this place happens to be near the mouth of a sewer containing typhoid poison, or if the creek water be contaminated, the oysters will take the virus within their shells, and to revenge themselves on those who eat them raw.

In some puzzling cases of typhoid it has been supposed that the food was infected by flies, which had carried the germs a long distance on their feet—strong argument for the proper care of food in the fly season.

There are only a few of the ways in which this disease may be spread, but they are enough to show that, so far from feeling surprise that the disorder should be so common, we may rather wonder that we are not all its victims.—"Youth's Companion."

Found a Skeleton.

Middletown, Conn., Nov., 15.—A skeleton was found in the woods last Saturday by a party of hunters. It lay in a shallow grave, partially under a stone wall, and the skull was crushed as if by a blow from a heavy club. The bones are supposed to be those of Giuseppe Sinelda, who kept an Italian boarding house near Deep River, and who unaccountably disappeared four years ago. He went into the woods hunting accompanied by a fellow countrymen. The companion returned latter in the day and reported that Sinelda had wondered off and he could not find him. He carried more than $300 on his person. Sinelda's hunting companion and Mrs. Sinelda, a pretty young Italian, disappeared soon afterward. It is thought now that Sinelda was murdered by his countrymen.

CHAMBERLAIN TALKS!

Has Returned Home From the United States.

SPEAKS OF THE FASHODA INCIDENT

Only One of a Series of Unfriendly Acts of Which the Republic of France Has Been Guilty Recently.

UNITED STATES WAS PATTED

MANCHESTER, Nov. 16.—At the National Liberal Unionist conference here yesterday, Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, made the first public speech since his return from the United States.

Mr. Chamberlain, who was much more explicit on the subject of Anglo-French relations than any of his colleagues in the cabinet has been, said:

"It was the hope of every friend of peace that the French withdrawal from Fashoda is indicative of their acceptance of the principle of British control of the whole valley of the Nile, regarding which there cannot be any discussion whatever." Going on to recite a "series of unfriendly acts perpetrated by France in various quarters of the globe during the last ten or fifteen years, he said:

"If better relations are to be established it will be necessary for French politicians to abandon tactics whose object has been to hamper and embarrass British policy even in quarters where the French have no interests to protect. I refer especially to New Foundland fisheries. Despite the fact that the French fishery interests have declined to a comparatively insignificant point, the demands of the French have continually increased and their interference with the development of the colony has increased

"At the present moment New Foundland is seriously suffering from an intervention which is of no advantage to France, although a serious detriment to the British colony. If the Fashoda incident only serves to disabuse foreign statesmen of the erroneous conception that the British will yield anything to pressure, it will be a blessing in disguise."

After referring to the "thorough and complete sympathy so noticeable between the motherland and her colonies," Mr. Chamberlain continued as follows:

"What is of equal importance, our American kin folk [Loud cheers] have begun to understand us better. If we have had differences in the past, I believe they have arisen entirely from the want of proper mutual understanding, but now the American people know that in the late trouble our hearts went out to them [cheers] and they heartily reciprocate our good feelings.

"I shall not attempt to predict what may follow this better feeling, but I may at least hope that in the future the understanding of which I have spoken may be perfected and in the face of that understanding we two may be able to guarantee peace and civilization to the world." [Prolonged cheers.]

Nature's Protection of the Doe.

Minneapolis Journal: "One of the strangest, as well as the wisest provisions of nature," says the well known guide, Dan Heywood, "is that which protects the doe deer, as well as some other female animals, from enemies of the carnivorous species during the period when the off-spring is very young. Between the toes of all the feet will be found a hole, which extends into the foot about an inch, terminating in a sack, in which is secred a musk or scent of a very strong odor. Ordinarily, when the deer is walking, the air leaves sufficient scent in each track to enable a dog or wolf to follow it several hours after it has been made by the deer; but the foot of the doe is changed for several months after the fawn is born. The glands, if glands they are, dry up, and there is not a bit of odor in the track, and no dog, not even the best deerhound is able to follow the trial. Many good hounds have lost their reputation by failing to follow a female bear with cubs, and perhaps a deer also.

—Stories of how it happened are still being told by defeated candidates.

A Mountain May Be Tunnelled.

STROUDSBURG, Nov 14.—A visit was made to this county by Cornelius Vanderbilt, the well known railroad magnate, and seven railroad officials, presumably on a tour of inspection. The party arrived on a special train. It is rumored that the real purpose of the visit of Vanderbilt was to personally investigate a scheme to tunnel the Pocono mountain as a means of shortening the time between Buffalo and New York. It has long been in the minds of the D. L. & W. railroad people to undertake such an engineering feat.

In 1893 William K. Vanderbilt, the dominating force in the extensive system of Vanderbilt railroads, to his surprise discovered that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western could be made the shortest route by forty miles to Buffalo by tunneling the mountain, and Vanderbilt is said to have purchased 5,000 shares of Lackawanna. It is claimed that the tunneling of Pocono mountain would be a comparatively easy piece of engineering, which, if accomplished, would cut down the distance between New York and Scranton many miles and the time of travel a number of hours because of the difference in speed that could be made. Should the enterprise be carried out it would be of vast importance, especially to people along this portion of the road.

Keystone Bicycle Plant Burned

Reading, Nov., 15.—The large plant of the Keystone Bicycle company in West Reading was destroyed by fire on Saturday. Flames were discovered in the works a few minutes before 11 o'clock Saturday morning and in an hour the plant was in ruins. The flames spread rapidly, and, although half a dozen streams of water was thrown upon them, they could not be subdued. At 11.45 there was a loud report, caused by the explosion of two tanks of carbolic acid gas, and the crowd surrounding the fire became panic stricken. No one was injured, however.

The destroyed plant consisted of a three story brick building and several frame structures. It had not been in operation for some time and the cause of the fire is a mystery. The loss in stock, machinery and building is said to be nearly $85,000, on which there is an insurance of from $25,000 to $30,000. When in full operation the works employed 125 people. Among the stock burned were 200 '99 model bicycles and the parts for 500 wheels.

An Interesting Decision.

Another interesting decision has just been made by Judge McPherson Mrs. Susan Keator held a transfer ticket of the Scranton Traction company and while crossing the street to change cars was struck on the head by a falling piece of trolley pole and injured. She claimed damages on two grounds—as a pedestrian on the street; and the company failed to exercise due care for her protection; and as a passenger who was entitled to the especial care of the trolley company. Judge McPherson decided that a person in possession of a transfer ticket continues to be a passenger while proceeding from one car to another, and a verdict of $4,760 was found in her favor.

—By a vote of 186 against 139 the voters of Somerset borough have declared in favor of bonding the borough in the amount of $4,000 for the purpose of erecting a municipal building. They have also declared by a vote of 187 against 128 in favor of issuing borough bonds in the amount of $20,000 for the purpose of constructing a system of public sewers. The urgent necessity for both public improvements has been recognized for a long time by a majority of the residents of Somerset and they have generously voted the money to have them carried out at an early day.

BIG FIRE AT DAWSON

A Woman Threw a Lamp and It Cost $500,000.00.

OVER FORTY BUILDINGS BURNED

One Fire Engine and Two Thousand Men Fought Heroically and Stopped the Flames—Mail Matter Rescued.

RED HOT TIME IN THE OLD TOWN

SKAGUAY, Alaska, Nov. 7, via Victoria, B. C., Nov. 15.—Returning Klondikers arriving in this city yesterday brought the news that the city of Dawson had been visited with a $500,000 fire, in which over 40 buildings were burned, including the new postoffice building and some of the best buildings in the city. The fire took place on the morning of October 16.

It started in the Green Tree saloon as the result of a row between two women of the town. Belle Mitchell threw a lamp at another woman. The lamp broke, the oil spread and in a few seconds the building was on fire. The fire started at 5:20 a. m.

The fire of a year ago was caused by this same woman, who threw a lamp at a man with whom she had a quarrel. A month ago she tried to burn her own place in Third avenue in Dawson by throwing a lamp at a woman, and nearly caused a conflagration by again losing her temper and wielding another lighted lamp.

The news of the conflagration was brought out by several of the miners who arrived in this city. The steamer Ora left Dawson October 20 and 20 through passengers reached Bennett on Sunday morning.

At the time the police gong sounded the fire alarm a light wind was blowing down the Yukon, and the people at once saw it would require quick work to save the town from total destruction. The postoffice was the next building south of the Green Tree saloon and the work of getting the mail matter out was quickly done. Although nearly all the mail was saved it is in great confusion.

All that remains to show where formerly 40 buildings stood are a few blackened logs and the town was saved from total destruction by the fire engine. If it had not been that about 2,000 men turned out and worked like Trojans with wet blankets, buckets of water and axes and aided in the working of the fire apparatus, the whole town would have gone up in smoke.

The Klondike Nugget says that the losses will be difficult to estimate, but the following list is given out:

Worden hotel, total loss, $40,00; Pattiron & McGraw's New England saloon, $4,000; postoffice building, owned by A. McDonald, $10,000; Green Tree saloon, $35,000; Empire bakery buildings, $40,000; McPherson & Johnson, stock and building, $20,000; Vancouver hotel, $25,000; John Sargent saloon, $3,000; New York store and ladies' bazar, $21,000; Case & Gilsey, $8 000; Dawson Tortoni, Jack Thorn owner, and Nellie Lewis and others, $43,000; Hibbard boot and shoe store and sixteen small buildings, $8,000; E. A. Sutter, jeweler, lost everything he had; L. Flatew, tailor, $15,000; John McDonald, stock and building, tailor, $6,000; George Brewett, tailor, $8,000; Foley, butcher, $5,000; Seattle lunch counter, $9,000; restaurants, small stores, etc., across the street, $29,000; twelve cabins, furniture, etc., $18,000; damage to buildings and by water to stock $50,000; damage to goods and stocks throughout the entire burned district claimed by losers to be $100,000, deducting 50 per cent, $50,000. Total $503,000. There is no insurance at Dawson and the loss falls entirely on the individuals.

The mounted officers are investigating the origin of the fire. It was at first thought that the fire was the result of an incendiary, but this idea has been entirely dissipated.

The miners now in Skaguay left Dawson on the steamer Ora and at White Horse transferred to the steamer Olive May and came to Bennett. From White Pass they came to this city on the railroad which is running two trains daily between this city and the pass. Very little ice was found in the upper river, which is remarkable at this time of year.

The first ice seen was coming out of the Teheena into the Yukon. At Marsh lake there was a little ice, but it was not over a quarter of an inch thick and the steamer had no difficulty in getting through. The Ora is the last steamer of the season. All the rest are now tied up until spring.

It is said there is not enough lumber and window glass in Dawson to rebuild the burned district, and that the people are in distress and will have to live in tents for the rest of the winter.

The Autumn Leaves They Speak to Me.

The Autumn leaves they speak to me
As I walk beneath the trees;
They whisper in such solemn tones,
They make life sad to me.

I think of youth beneath their shade,
Of the years that have passed me by;
How oft have I seen their colors change
And heard their moan and sigh.

Oh, Autumn frosts, oh, cruel frosts,
Your work is plainly seen;
How can you strike your deadly fangs
In leaves so bright and green?

Oh, Autumn winds, you shake and shake
Those leaves from their home on high;
How gently you drop them one by one
On the cold earth to die.

Oh, sad thought, why speak to me
Of that world to me unseen?
For I am told there living waters flow
Through fields of living green.

I know the cruel frosts of time
Has marked me for his prey;
But why should I feel sad to-day?
For that world I would love to see.

Affairs in South Carolina.

Greenwood, S. C., Nov., 15.—A telephone message received here last night says a negro woman was shot near Pine Grove church by a party of white men who were on their way here. No particulars are obtainable, except that her house was fired on by a passing crowd and that one ball struck her in the abdomen.

A message from Troy states that Mr. Kennedy McCastan and a negro on his place in Abbeville had a personal difficulty in which the negro, whose name could not be learned, shot McCastan in the face with a shotgun and fled in the direction of Abbeville. Word came that Mr. John Fell had shot a negro near that place in Abbeville county, while engaged in a personal difficulty. None of the lawlessness today, except the shooting of the woman, had the remotest connection with the Phoenix riot.

A latter dispatch from Abbeville says that the negro who shot McCastan was pursued to the court house square in Abbeville, where he was caught and committed to jail. There is no fear of his being lynched.

The Evolution of the Hog.

Secretary Coburn, of the Kansas state board of agriculture begins his latest work, "The Hog in America," with these words: "From the repulsive and proscribed nuisance of antiquity, tolerated but despised, under the ban of many religious, descended through the savage, predatory hordes of Old World forest and jungles, the hog has become not only amenable to civilization, but, under the mollifying influences of Indian corn and surroundings salubrious and peaceful, he is in America a debt payer, a mortgage remover, a promoter of progress and a buttress of prosperity."

The Work of an Aged Lady.

Gazette and Bulletin: Misses Ruth and Kate Hemperly, daughters of Granville Hemperly, of 641 Maple street, each received a quilt from their great grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Schrack of which they are very proud. Mrs. Schrack is 92 years old and arrived in Union county 90 years ago. Of recent years she has spent her time in making quilts and presenting them to her grandchildren This quilt consists of 64 squares, 17 patches to a square, making 1,008 patches in all. There are 64,000 stitches to the quilt.

Some Campaign Echoes.

There are a few campaign echoes which deserve to be recorded.

Dr. Swallow has been going about the State repeating day after day and night after night old charges and accusations that have been repeatedly punctured. The result is that the people have placed little confidence in his campaign and have plainly notified him that they have had enough.

Mr. Wanamaker has been invading the counties of Pennsylvania, urged on by a personal spite and a desire for revenge to attack Republicanism. The people of Pennsylvania have heard Mr. Wanamaker before. He made a fight for the United States Senatorship and was beaten. He made a personal canvass of Pennsylvania for the Republican nomination for Governor only a few months ago and was overwhelmingly overthrown by the popular vote. Those who have been conversant with Mr. Wanamaker's political career have deliberately decided that his campaign was intended, not for the good of the Republican party, but for the good of Mr. Wanamaker or his friends. They have heard him talk; they have voted against his cause, and they have completely repudiated him in every shape and form.

The splendid victory for Colonel Stone is evidence that the people of Pennsylvania believe in principles and policies, and that these principles and policies are not to be scattered to the four winds because self seekers desire it. Dr. Swallow and Mr. Wanamaker must know, if they are capable of understanding the signs of the times, that their personal animosities are of little account beyond the narrow circle of their immediate friends. The great state of Pennsylvania requires something better than personal ambitions. The truth indeed is mighty and must prevail.—Inquirer.

Old Time Campaigning.

"Madam may I kiss these beautiful children?" inquired General W. B. Shattuc, as he leaned over a front gate, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Certainly, sir, there is no possible objection."

"They are lovely darlings," said the general, after he had finished the eleventh, "I have seldom seen more beautiful babies. Are they yours, madam?"

The lady blushed deeply.

"Of course they are, the sweet little treasures! From whom else, ma'am could they have inherited those limpid eyes, those rosy cheeks, those profuse curls, those comely figures and those musical voices?"

The lady continued blushing.

"By the way, ma'am," said he "may I bother you to tell your estimable husband that William B. Shattuc, candidate for this district, called upon him this evening?"

"Excuse me, sir," said the lady, "I have no husband!"

"But these children; madam—you surely are not a widow?"

"I feared you were mistaken, sir, when you first came up. These are not my children. This is the fresh air fund vacation cottage."

A QUEER COURTSHIP

How a German Girl Found Her Fate With the Aid of the Postal Service.

A romance, which had its origin in the fancies of a 14-year old girl in Druisburg, Germany, has been brought to a happy ending in Chicago by the marriage of Ethel Schwann, of Chicago, to Carl Redlinger, of Rockport, Ill.

Six years ago the young people lived in the town of Druisburg. He was years older than she and he scarcely noticed her, but she adored him. When he left his home in Germany to come to America he was ignorant of her devotion. She followed him to America five years later, and since her arrival she has been living with her sister in Chicago. During all these years she had heard nothing of Redlinger beyond the mere information that he had settled in Illinois and was engaged in farming. Her early affection was still alive, and after her arrival in America she began a search for the companion of her childhood. He was eight years her senior and the promise of "undying love" had not been spoken.

Miss Schwann's knowledge of the American States was very meagre when she left home, and for six months her search was beset with great difficulties. Then she hit upon a rather extraordinary scheme, through which she pursued her quest. She wrote a letter, addressing it to Carl Redlinger, Elgin. On the outside of the envelope she wrote, "Please return if not called for in ten days." Then she wrote another letter and addressed it to Carl Redlinger, Bloomington, with the same instructions on the envelope. Every day she wrote one or more of these letters, all addressed to Carl Redlinger and each directed to a different town. She sent these letters to almost every town in Illinois where there was a postal station. All but eight or ten were returned to her, but while the uncalled-for letters were pouring back the longed-for result finally came.

One of the random shots sent out over the State had reached the mark for which they were intended, and the young woman's quest was ended. Carl Redlinger, the one Ethel had learned to admire years ago in Germany, had for five years lived on a farm near Rockport, Pike county. Ethel directed one of her circulars to this place, copying the name from the atlas, and one day last July Redlinger received it. Redlinger wrote to her and followed his letter with a visit.

A card on the outside of office door says: "Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And, the man will be there on time. That is, for some days, weeks or even months he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache—a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten minute lunches condensed.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heartburn," or any of the rest of the night mare breeding brood, that these little "Pellets" will not cure. They cure permanently.

Soldiers and Pretty Dutch Girls.

A train load of soldiers were waiting at the Altoona station a few days ago when an emigrant train pulled in on an adjoining track. The soldiers viewed the pretty dutch girls for a few minutes, and then one called for volunteers to pay them a visit. In less than it takes to read this a dozen sturdy boys in blue jumped out of the car window and made a charge on the emigrants. They passed through the train and kissed all the women and girls on board. Some pretended to be mad but they weren't. Some enjoyed the joke, and one buxom lass threw up both hands and exclaimed "Mine Gott, vot a glorious country dis is."

Dropped Dead.

Martin Saar, a farmer of Limestone township, Lycoming county, was hunting with his son a few days ago. While in the act of placing the gun against his shoulder he fell to the ground dead. His son ran for assistance, but the father was beyond human aid. The deceased had been afflicted with heart disease for some time. He was 50 years of age.

Priceless Pain

"If a price can be placed on pain, 'Mother's Friend' is worth its weight in gold as an alleviator. My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other two children than she did altogether with her last, having previously used four bottles of 'Mother's Friend.' It is a blessing to any one expecting to become a mother," says a customer.

Thus writes Henderson Dale, Druggist, of Carmi, Ill., to the Bradfield Regulator Company, of Atlanta, Ga., the proprietors and manufacturers of "Mother's Friend." This successful remedy is not one of the many internal medicines advertised to do unreasonable things, but a scientifically prepared liniment especially effective in adding strength and elasticity to those parts of woman's organism which bear the severest strains of childbirth.

The liniment may be used at any and all times during pregnancy up to the very hour of confinement. The earlier it is begun, and the longer used, the more perfect will be the result, but it has been used during the last month only with great benefit and success.

It not only shortens labor and lessens the pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery.

"Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists at $1.00, or sent by express on receipt of price.

What Becomes of the Pins.

Every individual who lives to grow up has in all probability asked at some time in his life what becomes of all the pins that are manufactured and lost. An old gentleman in London, according to Harper's Bazar, has prepared himself to answer the question. By a series of experiments conducted in his back gardens he has discovered that they go the way of all flesh, and are resolved into dust! Hairpins, which he watched for one hundred and fifty-four days, disappeared at the end of that time, having been resolved into ferrous, oxide, a brownish rust, which was blown away by the wind as it formed; bright pins took nearly eighteen months to disappear; polished steel needles nearly two years and a half; brass pins had but little endurance; steel pens at the end of fifteen months had nearly gone, while their wooden holders were still intact. Pencils, with which he also experimented, suffered little by exposure; the lead was unharmed, and the cedar almost as good as new; but then nobody has ever asked the question about pencils, and he might have spared himself his pains.

A Sensational Arrest.

GLASGOW, Ky., Nov. 11.—Robert Brown was arrested under most sensationally thrilling circumstances last evening. On Thursday night Brown shot and killed his father-in-law, Louis McClellan, and seriously wounded his mother-in-law and sister-in-law. He then escaped. He returned to the McClellan home yesterday morning with the avowed purpose of finishing the slaughter. Yesterday he shot Mrs. McClellan and her son and returned to his farm and fortified himself in his barn.

Officers and a large posse surrounded the barn and over one hundred shots were exchanged, Brown opening fire on their approach. He continued the fusilade till his ammunition was exhausted. Then the posse proceeded to light torches with which to fire the barn, and Brown threw his two guns and two revolvers and jumped holding up both hands and begging for protection. He was brought to this city by Deputy Marshal Bailey and others and was very nervous as threats of lynching were yelled at him all along the way into town.

In the fight at the barn, which continued from morning until afternoon, Sheriff Bartow was shot through the hand and Deputy John Neice through the ear.

Insanity on the Increase.

The annual report of the board of public charities of Pennsylvania prints the unpleasant information that the increase of insanity in the state within the past thirteen years has been from 5,374 to 10,025 patients now cared for in the various institutions. This is quite out of proportion to the increase of population, which required thirty years to double in the state.

Some one has dedicated this proverb to Silas Swallow: "Blessed are they that expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed."

Struck a Mountain of Gold

A letter from I. C. Ward under date of Finley Rapids, Sept. 28th, 1898, informs his relatives and friends in this part of the country that his gold hunting expedition has been partially successful. Mr. Ward is a brother of Dr. J. E. Ward, of this place. He gave up a fine practice in dentistry in Chicago to try his hand at gold prospecting and it will be recalled by our readers that we published an account of his starting at the time they left.

There were four in the party. They went by rail to Edmonton, province of Alberta, Canada, and there equipped themselves with fifteen horses and supplies enough to last for a year in the north. From Edmonton they continued northwest to the Lesser Slave lake, in the province of Athabaska, in which vicinity they have made their find. Part of Mr. Ward's letter is as follows:

 I suppose you wonder where I am at by this time for I often do myself, away off here with no familar scenes to recall any location to my mind. The map will show you our exact location better than I can tell it, so instead of giving you a lesson in geography I will hurry through with this note so that I can go to work again on our cabin, which is to be our home for the winter. Yes, we are going to stop our northward march right here for, if you will pardon the slang, I thing we're "up against the real thing now." We have struck a mountain that is a mile long, two thousand feet high and seems to be all gold. As near as we have been able to analyze it the dirt ought to be worth at least $20 a ton and as there are at least fifty million tons of dirt here you can figure out what our mountain is worth. Having been elected mining recorder for the camp I will see to it that "our mountain" is ours by right.

Dr. Potts and one of the other men of our party are starting back to the States to-day, so that I can send this letter with them. They will purchase machinery to be brought here in the spring so that we can go to work as soon as the weather is propitious. The days are getting short here now, but it is not very cold yet. We had our first ice last night, though it has snowed considerable already. The mountains are all capped with snow.

Don't think that I am a millionaire yet, for we will have to spend fifty thousand dollars before we can get a cent out of our mine, but while we are getting in shape for the work we are going to be comfortable as a big cabin and plenty to eat can make us. We have bacon, dried fruit, vegetables, plenty of game and fish in such numbers that one can kill them with clubs so you see we won't starve.—DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN.

November Weather.

Weather Observer Demain, of Harrisburg, furnishes some interesting data of November weather in that city the past ten years. It shows a normal temperature of 43 degrees and an average rainfall of 2.97 inches. The warmest month was in 1896, when the average was 48 degrees, and the coldest in 1894, with an average of 40 degrees. The highest temperature was 75 degrees November 9, 1895, and the lowest 14 degrees November 30, 1891. In 1889 the rainfall in November was 6.59 inches and in November 1890, it was about 1.12 inches. There was a snowfall 4.8 inches November 9, 1892. The average number of clear days during this month has been 7 partly cloudy 10, and cloudy 13. November 23, 1891, the wind attained a velocity of 54 miles an hour.

When a young man asks a father for his daughter's hand in marriage, if the father is a wise one, he thinks of one thing equally as important as the young man's morals, social and business standing and intelligence. A young man who suffers from ill-health has no right to marry until his health is restored. To do so is to commit a crime against the human race. While all diseases may not be directly inherited, the constitutional tendency to acquire them is inherited. If a man is a consumptive, the chances are that his children will have weak, undersized lungs, and a predisposition to acquire the same disease.

The young man who suffers from bronchitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood or any disease of the air-passages which, if neglected leads up to consumption, may take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with almost absolute assurance of recovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases when taken in time. It soothes and heals the delicate and sensitive tissues of the air-passages and lungs, checks the cough, facilitates expectoration, drives out all impurities and disease germs from the tainted blood and builds new and healthy tissues.

Mr. John G. Born, of 4020 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "Some thirty months ago I said to my wife, 'I don't want to keep anything from you, I must tell you I am in the last stage of consumption.' In December 1896 I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I could then only speak in whispers. I have taken thirteen bottles, and can say with truth I am greatly benefited. People are surprised to hear me speak. I can halloo, and my voice has not been as good in eight years. My stomach was never in better condition. Formerly I could not eat without suffering very much immediately after, but now I can eat anything."

How He Gained Courage.

A youth of 18 who was in the trenches at El Caney carrying a gun was so badly frightened under fire that he went flat on his face and was roundly kicked by his companions, says a writer in the Chicago Journal. General Chaffee came along and called to him, "Well, you're a fine soldier." Then he looked at the boyish face of the kid and his face softened. "I suppose you can't help it," he said. "It ain't so much your fault. I'd like to get hold of the fellow that took you into the army." By and by he put his hand on the boy's shoulder. "There isn't so much danger as you think for," said the general. "Now you get up and take your gun and fight and I'll stand here by you."

The boy got up shaking like a leaf and fired his first shot pretty near straight into the air.

"That's pretty high," said the general. "Keep cool and try it again."

In three minutes the kid was fighting like a veteran and as cool as a cucumber, and when he saw it the general started on.

"You're all right now, my boy," he said. "You'll make a good soldier."

"God bless you, sir," said the youngster. "You saved me from worse than death," and he was pretty close to crying when he said it.

After a while the order came to retire from the trench and soldiers had to collar that kid and haul him away by the neck to get him to retreat with his company. And at that he'd got a bullet through the fleshy part of his shoulder an hour before. In the rest of the fights there wasn't a better soldier in the company.

Keep An Eye Open for Him.

William Lytle, an old soldier of Stormstown, befriended a comrade a few days ago by giving him shelter and food. The "comrade" demonstrated his appreciation of the kindness shown him by stealing Mr. Lytle's pension check. His name is said to be Robert Myers. He is about 65 years old, about 5½ feet high, stoutly built, a little bent forward and walks with a staff, has light complexion and light gray or blue eyes. He has a mark on his jaw he said was a gunshot wound, and a crooked little finger with a ring on which he could not take off, a light mustache and clean shaven.

Imitated Xenophon.

Apropos of the sixtieth anniversary of Russia's first railway, a German paper tells an anecdote of Bismarck. When he was Ambassador in St. Petersburg, he wanted to go to a soiree in Rarskje-Selo, but missed his train. He demanded a special train, but could not get it, as the road had only one track and a train was coming the other way. A hand-car with two men was finally placed at his disposal. After traveling a few miles they heard the train coming. The two men tried to get the hand-car off the track, but failed, and the car would have been wrecked had not Bismarck lent his herculean strength to get it off.

An Answered Prayer.

From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Justice Haynes's court room was thronged with men yesterday afternoon. There were lawyers, court attaches and one or two politicians who had just dropped in to hear what was going on. The situation at Jackson was taken up, when one who had said little remarked: "Gentlemen, are you all praying that the fever there may abate?"

There was no answer and he continued, "I once knew a man up in the oil region of Illinois. I do not know that I should say in the oil regions, but it was in Northern Illinois, a hundred miles or so from Chicago, where some oil was discovered a few years ago. There was a drought overspreading the country. On a pious deacon's farm they had been boring for oil. They had bored and bored, but finally gave it up and were drawing up the piping. While the workmen were at this the deacon was at his church where the Christian people of the village nearby had assembled to pray for rain. They prayed powerfully. Before the deacon reached home that well out of which the workmen were drawing the pipe, burst forth in a stream of water as big as a man's body which shot seventy-five feet into the air. It continued to flow and it flooded the deacon's place and all the country around. They dug ditches and tried to turn the water into a creek, but they did not succeed until much damage had been done. Finally some one thought of putting a cap on the well, and after much difficulty the flow was checked. But the fields all about had been well watered and produced abundant crops that season. I am a firm believer in prayer."

Women Should Know It.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for twenty-four hours, are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

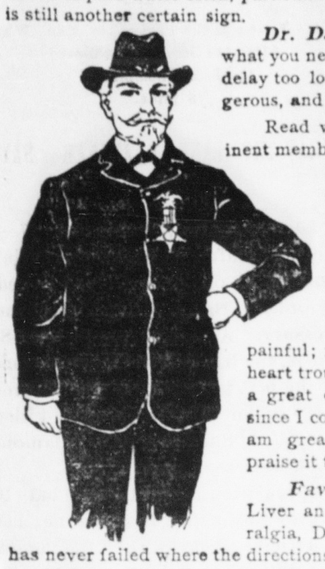
It fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention the REPUBLICAN and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y.

The Kidneys and Blood

If you want to be well, see to it that your Kidneys and Blood are in a healthy condition. It is an easy matter to learn what state your Kidneys are in. Place some of your urine in a bottle or tumbler, and leave it stand one day and night. A sediment at the bottom shows that you have a dangerous Kidney disease. Pains in the small of the back indicate the same thing. So does a desire to pass water often, particularly at night, and a scalding pain in urinating is still another certain sign.



Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is what you need. It will cure you surely if you do not delay too long in taking it. Kidney diseases are dangerous, and should not be neglected a single moment.

Read what P. H. Kipp, of Union, N. Y., a prominent member of the G. A. R., says:—"I was troubled with my Kidneys and Urinary Organs and suffered great annoyance day and night, but since using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I have greatly improved, and that dreadful burning sensation has entirely gone. I had on my lip what was called a pipe cancer, which spread 'most across my lip, and was exceeding painful; now that is almost well. I also had severe heart trouble, so that it was difficult to work; that is a great deal better. I have gained nine pounds since I commenced taking the Favorite Remedy; am greatly benefited in every way, and cannot praise it too much."

Favorite Remedy is a specific for Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles. In Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, and Skin and Blood Diseases, it has never failed where the directions were followed. It is also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females. All druggists sell it at $1.00 a bottle.

Sample Bottle Free! If you will send your full postoffice address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., and mention this paper, we will forward you, prepaid, a free sample bottle of the Favorite Remedy, together with full directions for its use. SPANISH WAR!

Major General Miles Submits His Reports.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Major General Miles has submitted to the secretary of war an exhaustive report of the operations of the army during the war with Spain. Coming down to the opening of hostilities, he says the two most serious obstacles to be avoided were placing an army in Cuba before the navy controlled the surrounding waters, and placing an army there during the rainy season. In a letter to Secretary Alger, April 18, the report says General Miles "asserts the belief I have entertained from the first, that we could secure the surrender of the Spanish army in the island of Cuba without any great sacrifice of life."

These last words he particularly emphasizes. After reciting the details of organization and equipment of the troops for the movement on Cuba and the various expeditions sent to the aid of the Cubans, Gen. Miles reaches May 30, when information was received of the "bottling up" of Cervera in Santiago harbor, and Gen. Shafter was ordered there to assist the navy. Gen. Miles says he asked Secretary Alger to send him with this command, but it sailed without him on June 14, and next day he was called to Washington by Secretary Alger on "important business."

There he submitted a plan of campaign, the chief points of which were the capture after Santiago and Porto Rico, of waterways on the North Cuban coast, and the establishment of bases at the cities of Porto Principe and Villa Clara, which would make practicable co-operation with Garcia and Gomez, and advance on Havana from the south side.

Gen. Miles says these features of his plan were submitted by him in letters on May 26 and 27. On June 26 the orders for the movement of Brooke's troops on Porto Rico were issued, Gen. Miles to command this as well as Shafter's army at Santiago.

The next event was the battle of Santiago and the sending of Gen. Miles there. He tells of his arrival there on July 11, the consultations with Shafter, the conference with the Spanish general Toral, and the latter's surrender on July 14, in response to Miles's demand, all of which are matters of public information. He also includes a relation of the efforts made to prevent the spread of yellow fever among the troops.

The balance of the report is devoted to the Porto Rico campaign, and, in its essential features, does not differ materially from the published accounts. In his mention of the fight at Coamo he speaks of the flank movement "admirably executed by the Sixteenth Pennsylvania regiment volunteer infantry under Colonel Hulings; passing over a mountain trail, they made a wide detour, coming on in the rear of the Spanish troops under cover of night without being discovered, and, striking the military road to San Juan, cut off the enemy's retreat. In the engagement the commanding officer of the Spanish troops and the second in command were killed and 167 prisoners taken."

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

IS DREYFUS DEAD?

A Mysterious Telegram Arrives In Paris.

Paris, November 14.—It was reported here last evening that Dreyfus is dead. The rumor is understood to be based upon a mysterious telegram received from Colmar, capital of Upper Alsace, signed by an unknown correspondent. So far as can be ascertained there is no official confirmation of the report. The father-in-law of Dreyfus discredits it. He says he has received excellent accounts from the colonial office quite recently as to the prisoner's health.

Despite these assurances there are dark rumors afloat. In view of the curious manner in which the letter from Dreyfus declaring that he had abandoned all hope was conveyed to Mme. Dreyfus on Friday many people believe he is dead.

A dispatch from Paris on Friday said that Mme. Dreyfus had applied at the office of the minister of the colonies for permission to send her husband some warm clothing for his return home. The request was refused, on the ground that the government would do whatever was necessary.

At the same time, according to the dispatch, the authorities read her a letter from her husband to the effect that having for five months addressed appeals for revision to General De Boisdeffre (recently chief of staff of the French army), without getting any reply, and being weary and exhausted by his useless appeals, he would write no more to his family or to anybody. He described himself as ill and dying and bequeathed to "the generosity of my country the care of rehabilitating my memory."

It appears that Mme. Dreyfus then asked permission to telegraph her husband the decision of the court of cassation. This request was also refused. Then, through a friend, she appealed to President Faure, but with no better result. The dispatch said her counsel would bring the whole matter before the court of cassation.

Careful inquiries made at Colmar last evening show that nothing is known there as to the death of Dreyfus. It is now believed that the telegram was a hoax.

Rubber Rollers are Used for Crushing the Grapes to Make Speer's Port, Burgundy, Claret and Other Wines,

Which, as is well known, rival the world in excellence, for invalids and aged persons, and are made from the Oporto grape grown on vines imported from Portugal forty years ago. The soil of northern New Jersey, containing iron, is just suited for them. Mr. Speer, however, uses the improved way of mashing the grapes. He employs large rollers of rubber run by an engine which crush grapes at the rate of a barrel a minute. Speer's Wines, especially the Port and Burgundy now in market, are of very old vintage, and have no superior. Physicians far and near prescribe them for weakly females and aged persons. They are blood-making, adding iron to the system, and tend to prolong life. Extensively used at parties, weddings and general family use. Sold by Druggists and Grocers who deal in Wines.

Former Centre Countian Dead.

John Friday, aged 68 years and 10 months, died Friday night last at the home of his son, William, at Madera, Clearfield county, of paralysis, having been in a helpless condition since he was stricken two years ago. He is survived by three sons, Conrad, of Philipsburg, John, of Osceola, and William, of Madera. Two brothers also survive him, Hiram Friday, of Vail, and Henry Friday, of Philipsburg. The deceased was born near Hesse Castle, Germany, and came to America about 1855. After residing for several years near Alexandria he removed to the farm near Vail station, where he has ever since resided.

Mr. Friday was a member of the 193d regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, during the war, and on account of disability received in the service he was a pensioner of the government. He was connected with the Lutheran church and was in every respect a worthy and upright citizen, thoroughly esteemed by all who knew him.

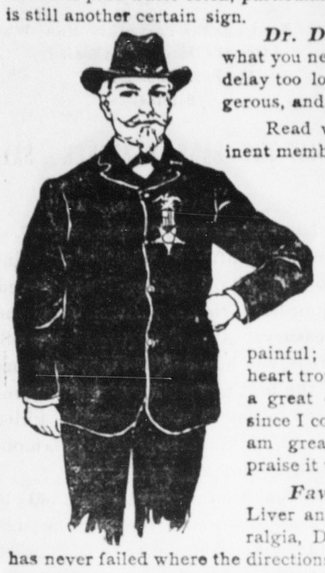
The Kidneys and Blood

If you want to be well, see to it that your Kidneys and Blood are in a healthy condition. It is an easy matter to learn what state your Kidneys are in. Place some of your urine in a bottle or tumbler, and leave it stand one day and night. A sediment at the bottom shows that you have a dangerous Kidney disease. Pains in the small of the back indicate the same thing. So does a desire to pass water often, particularly at night, and a scalding pain in urinating is still another certain sign.



Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is what you need. It will cure you surely if you do not delay too long in taking it. Kidney diseases are dangerous, and should not be neglected a single moment.

Read what P. H. KIPP, of Union, N. Y., a prominent member of the G. A. R., says:—"I was troubled with my Kidneys and Urinary Organs and suffered great annoyance day and night, but since using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I have greatly improved, and that dreadful burning sensation has entirely gone. I had on my lip what was called a pipe cancer, which spread 'most across my lip, and was exceeding painful; now that is almost well. I also had severe heart trouble, so that it was difficult to work; that is a great deal better. I have gained nine pounds since I commenced taking the Favorite Remedy; am greatly benefited in every way, and cannot praise it too much."

Favorite Remedy is a specific for Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles. In Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, and Skin and Blood Diseases, it has never failed where the directions were followed. It is also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females. All druggists sell it at $1.00 a bottle.

Sample Bottle Free! If you will send your full postoffice address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Rondout, N. Y., and mention this paper, we will forward you, prepaid, a free sample bottle of the Favorite Remedy, together with full directions for its use. You can depend upon this offer being genuine, and should write at once for a free trial bottle.

SPANISH WAR!

Major General Miles Submits His Reports.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Major General Miles has submitted to the secretary of war an exhaustive report of the operations of the army during the war with Spain. Coming down to the opening of hostilities, he says the two most serious obstacles to be avoided were placing an army in Cuba before the navy controlled the surrounding waters, and placing an army there during the rainy season. In a letter to Secretary Alger, April 18, the report says General Miles "asserts the belief I have entertained from the first, that we could secure the surrender of the Spanish army in the island of Cuba without any great sacrifice of life."

These last words he particularly emphasizes. After reciting the details of organization and equipment of the troops for the movement on Cuba and the various expeditions sent to the aid of the Cubans, Gen. Miles reaches May 30, when information was received of the "bottling up" of Cervera in Santiago harbor, and Gen. Shafter was ordered there to assist the navy. Gen. Miles says he asked Secretary Alger to send him with this command, but it sailed without him on June 14, and next day he was called to Washington by Secretary Alger on "important business."

There he submitted a plan of campaign, the chief points of which were the capture after Santiago and Porto Rico, of waterways on the North Cuban coast, and the establishment of bases at the cities of Porto Principe and Villa Clara, which would make practicable co-operation with Garcia and Gomez, and advance on Havana from the south side.

Gen. Miles says these features of his plan were submitted by him in letters on May 26 and 27. On June 26 the orders for the movement of Brooke's troops on Porto Rico were issued, Gen. Miles to command this as well as Shafter's army at Santiago.

The next event was the battle of Santiago and the sending of Gen. Miles there. He tells of his arrival there on July 11, the consultations with Shafter, the conference with the Spanish general Toral, and the latter's surrender on July 14, in response to Miles's demand, all of which are matters of public information. He also includes a relation of the efforts made to prevent the spread of yellow fever among the troops.

The balance of the report is devoted to the Porto Rico campaign, and, in its essential features, does not differ materially from the published accounts. In his mention of the fight at Coamo he speaks of the flank movement "admirably executed by the Sixteenth Pennsylvania regiment volunteer infantry under Colonel Hulings; passing over a mountain trail, they made a wide detour, coming on in the rear of the Spanish troops under cover of night without being discovered, and, striking the military road to San Juan, cut off the enemy's retreat. In the engagement the commanding officer of the Spanish troops and the second in command were killed and 167 prisoners taken."

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

IS DREYFUS DEAD?

A Mysterious Telegram Arrives In Paris.

PARIS, November 14.—It was reported here last evening that Dreyfus is dead. The rumor is understood to be based upon a mysterious telegram received from Colmar, capital of Upper Alsace, signed by an unknown correspondent. So far as can be ascertained there is no official confirmation of the report. The father-in-law of Dreyfus discredits it. He says he has received excellent accounts from the colonial office quite recently as to the prisoner's health.

Despite these assurances there are dark rumors afloat. In view of the curious manner in which the letter from Dreyfus declaring that he had abandoned all hope was conveyed to Mme. Dreyfus on Friday many people believe he is dead.

A dispatch from Paris on Friday said that Mme. Dreyfus had applied at the office of the minister of the colonies for permission to send her husband some warm clothing for his return home. The request was refused, on the ground that the government would do whatever was necessary.

At the same time, according to the dispatch, the authorities read her a letter from her husband to the effect that having for five months addressed appeals for revision to General De Boisdeffre (recently chief of staff of the French army), without getting any reply, and being weary and exhausted by his useless appeals, he would write no more to his family or to anybody. He described himself as ill and dying and bequeathed to "the generosity of my country the care of rehabilitating my memory."

It appears that Mme. Dreyfus then asked permission to telegraph her husband the decision of the court of cassation. This request was also refused. Then, through a friend, she appealed to President Faure, but with no better result. The dispatch said her counsel would bring the whole matter before the court of cassation.

Careful inquiries made at Colmar last evening show that nothing is known there as to the death of Dreyfus. It is now believed that the telegram was a hoax.

Lovely Women in the Lagar

at the Quinto Celleiros, Portugal.

Girls treading Grapes, to music, wearing short jackets and short linen pants, but a great variety of headgear. A violinist, seated on the edge of the vat, fiddles while one or two of the damsels join in with their voices, keeping time with their feet, treading the grapes.

Rubber Rollers are Used for Crushing the Grapes to Make Speer's Port, Burgundy, Claret and Other Wines.

Which, as is well known, rival the world in excellence, for invalids and aged persons, and are made from the Oporto grape grown on vines imported from Portugal forty years ago. The soil of northern New Jersey, containing iron, is just suited for them. Mr. Speer, however, uses the improved way of mashing the grapes. He employs large rollers of rubber run by an engine which crush grapes at the rate of a barrel a minute. Speer's Wines, especially the Port and Burgundy now in market, are of very old vintage, and have no superior. Physicians far and near prescribe them for weakly females and aged persons. They are blood-making, adding iron to the system, and tend to prolong life. Extensively used at parties, weddings and general family use. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND GROCERS WHO DEAL IN WINES.

Former Centre Countian Dead.

John Friday, aged 68 years and 10 months, died Friday night last at the home of his son, William, at Madera, Clearfield county, of paralysis, having been in a helpless condition since he was stricken two years ago. He is survived by three sons, Conrad, of Philipsburg, John, of Osceola, and William, of Madera. Two brothers also survive him, Hiram Friday, of Vail, and Henry Friday, of Philipsburg. The deceased was born near Hesse Castle, Germany, and came to America about 1855. After residing for several years near Alexandria he removed to the farm near Vail station, where he has ever since resided.

Mr. Friday was a member of the 193d regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, during the war, and on account of disability received in the service he was a pensioner of the government. He was connected with the Lutheran church and was in every respect a worthy and upright citizen, thoroughly esteemed by all who knew him.

THE French were somewhat irritated by the last speech which Mr. Chamberlain delivered.

GENERAL BRECKINRIDGE seems to think the world has seen greater commanders than General Shafter.

BY the time the Spaniards are ready to turn over Havana to the United States that city will be in a fair way to re-enact the terrors of the Parisian commune.

THERE is a good deal of truth in the statement that a citizen who aspires to public office is sometimes strengthened by the reputation of the men who oppose him.

THE young girl who is fortunate enough to have a mother makes a fatal mistake if she dees not share her inmost thoughts with that mother. The girl who has a secret which she is ashamed to share with her mother is on the road to ruin.

THE Afro-American Republican League does well to organize a strong protest against the iniquities that have been in progress in the Carolinas against the right of suffrage. The plea that no appeal for federal aid has come from the state officials is absurd.

THE chivalrous whites of Wilmington, N. C., continue to claim the sympathy of mankind. The surviving blacks of that city still refuse to come out of the woods and there is imminent danger that the Caucasian will be compelled to turn in and do the work that needs to be done.

SENATOR QUAY was made the object of persistent and malignant personal attack during the recent campaign. It was iterated and reiterated by the democratic and anti-Quay republican newspapers that the triumph of the republican party at the polls would be a triumph for Senator Quay. All the ancient tales that have done service in other years were dug up and set going again with some new ones. The result of the campaign of slander was the election of the republican state ticket by a plurality of over 100,000 and the deliberate declaration by the voters that they take no stock in these nursery tales. As a further result Senator Quay will be renominated by the republicans and re-elected on the first ballot. He won the victory and is entitled to its fruits.

—From the Johnstown Tribune: A monkey and a cat in the same cage are attracting the attention of passers-by at C. J. Hoffman's liquor store, Clinton street. Although not very affectionate, the animals do not appear to resent each other's company, while the monkey creates considerable amusement by occasionally looking carefully through the cat's hair, supposedly for "insects." The monkey is also quite an athlete and does many fine turns on a small trapeze hung in the cage. His quiet companion does not attempt anything in this line, but it may be possible that the cat will in the course of time, try some of the monkey's tricks.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Nov. 14th 1898.

President McKinley is still receiving congratulations, by mail, from every section of the country on the indorsement given him and his administration one of the most remarkable indorsements ever given to any President in the middle of his administration—by the voters of the country. The big head is an affliction unknown to him, but the President is naturally proud of the confidence in him, which the re-election of a republican majority of the House and the election of state legislatures, which insure a big republican majority in the Senate, expressed, and anxious that his future policy in connection with our newly acquired territory and his reccommendations to Congress, shall be of such a nature as to merit a continuance of that confidence. If a conscientious desire to do the right thing for the country will enable him to do it, he will succeed.

Having failed in the election, the democrats have returned to their old occupation of trying to create dissension among the victorious republicans. They are circulating stories to the effect that friends of the President are trying to prevent Speaker Reed being re-elected Speaker of the next House. There is not a word of truth in the stories, and it is as certain as anything in the future can be that Mr. Reed will be Speaker of the next House, unless he declines to be.

At the last meeting of the Cabinet, the American Peace Commissioners, at Paris, were instructed to notify the Spanish Commissioners that this government would call time on them if they did not hurry up and get down to business on our demand for the Philippines—a demand that is unalterable and which must be either accepted or refused, regardless of what any other government may do or threaten to do. In other words, Spain must understand that European interference, even if it could be brought about, would not change the policy of this government one iota.

While President McKinley will, under no circumstances, attempt to interfere with the selection of Senator by any of the republican state legislatures, there isn't the slightest doubt that Representative Babcock of Wisconsin, who, as Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign, Committee, has made a new record that is not likely to be broken, by electing a republican majority of the House at three consecutive Congressional elections, will have his best wishes in his campaign for election to the Senate. This is not because of any objection to either of the other able republicans who are candidates for the Senate, but because President McKinley thinks that Mr. Babcock's work for the party has given him a claim upon the highest honors at the disposal of the republicans of Wisconsin.

Adjutant General Corbin, in his annual report, refers to existing law which prevents the enlistment in the army of persons not citizens of the U. S., and says: "The new conditions will, however, make a modification of this statute desirable, to the end that the enlistment of from one company to a battalion of natives for each regiment serving in Cuba, Porto, Rico and the Philippines may be authorized. The advantage of this is to obvious for discussion."

According to the annual report of Commissioner-General T. V. Powderly, just made public, the total number of immigrants to the U. S., during the last fiscal year, was 229,-299, being 1,533 fewer than came during the previous year. During the year 3,030, who were undesirable, from one cause or another, principally pauperism, were debarred. Mr. Powderly recommends that the head tax be increased from $1 to $2, to provide a fund to "enlarge the bureau's operations to its full capacity for usefullness in protecting American citizens from disease, tax-payers from the imposition of unjust burdens, and the hospitals, charitable and penal institutions of the country from demoralization by the corrupt citizens of other countries."

Representative Sherman and other New York republicans who have been in Washington since the election appear to think that Hon. Chauncey M. Depew will be the republican elected to succeed Senator Murphy, unless there is a great change in party sentiment before the legislature meets.

Admiral Schley, who was one of our Military Commissioners charged with the duty of arranging for the evacuation of Porto Rico, is in Washington. He brought a full report of the work of himself and colleagues in Porto Rico, with him and it is now in the hands of the President. He refuses to discuss any of the numerous sensation a stories dealing with the relations both personal and official, between himself and Admiral Sampson, but has expressed an ardent desire to get hold of the man who started the story that he was a democrat. He says as a Naval Officer he has no politics other than his country and does not consider any other necessary; that his first and paramount, duty is to the administration. Secretary Long has not decided what duty Admiral Schley will next be assigned to, but will endeavor to meet the Admiral's wishes after conferring with him.

To Elevate Morals.

A curious plan for elevating Georgia morals has been formulated by a well known citizen of Atlanta. He proposes that each county shall decide by vote on January 1, of each year, who the worst man in each county is, and the man receiving the highest number of votes shall on the ensuing February 1 be hanged. It is claimed for the plan that it would induce bad men to migrate, and that the "complimentary vote" received by those who had just begun to be bad, but were not generally recognized as such, would tend to create a desire within them to be enrolled among the well behaved.

THE business of blackmailing is a very disreputable and hazardous occupation. For no citizen who is conscious of the rectitude of his intentions and the purity of his life will submit for a single instant to play the role of victim, so that there is always the chance of humilating failure. Honest labor sometimes has its hardships, but the man who keeps to the even tenor of his way, doing the right as he understands it, is a happy being compared to the sharper who is always lying in wait for the opportunity to put money in his purse by hidden and abhorrent methods.

SPAIN MAY YIELD

Not Until She Tells the Powers She is Helpless.

WILL ASK MORE FOR PHILIPPINES

If This Is Refused Her Commissioners Will State Further Conferences Are Useless—Final Position Made Clear.

THE ENVOYS MET WEDNESDAY

PARIS, Nov. 15.—A dispatch to the Temps from Madrid says the officials there do not believe the peace negotiations will be broken off. It adds:

"If the United States persists in their present claims Spain will accept the conditions after formally announcing at a session of the commission and in a circular to the powers that she yields to force and owing to the impossibility of renewing the war without unobtainable assistance in defense of her rights."

PARIS, Nov. 15.—It was decided that there would be no joint sessions of the peace commissions yesterday.

Secretary Moore of the United States commission received from Secretary Ojeda of the Spanish commisssion yesterday morning a note saying that the Spanish commissioners had found it impossible to prepare their memorandum for presentation yesterday, and asking if the United States commissioners would be inconvenienced if, owing to the late arrival from Madrid of expected data, the Spaniards should request that the next meeting be deferred until Wednesday. Secretary Moore replied that the American commissioners were quite ready to accommodate the Spanish commissioners.

Importance is attached to this delay, it being regarded as indicating that the Spanish commissioners are preparing for a final stand in these negotiations, and it may now be definitely stated that they will not sign a treaty of peace which yields to Spain no more from the Philippine islands than has thus far been offered or indicated by the Americans. Should the latter announce that the United States is only willing to reimburse Spain for her pacific expenditures in the Philippine islands the Spanish commissioners will reply that their mission is finished. Should this occur it is possible the Spaniards will also suggest a suspension of the negotiations through the commission and the resumption of negotiations between Madrid and Washington.

This attitude of the Spaniards is explained by the fact that the members of the Spanish commission have political alliances and personal responsibilities to constituencies and the national creditors of Spain, which restrict them to certain lines, which are as far as the ministry at Madrid cares to go.

It is pointed out that if the five Spanish commissioners here signed a treaty yielding the Philippine islands to the United States without lessening Spain's debt in an appreciable degree, they could not return home with the prospect of any political future before them, and possibly would be in danger of violence at the hands of mobs.

At the meeting of the commission the Americans will learn the definite attitude of Spain on any proposition thus far made. The Spaniards, however, in this presentation will not declare all negotiations closed. They will insist that the sovereignty of Spain over the Philippine islands is beyond question, but will announce Spain's readiness to yield that sovereignty for an adequate equivalent, and will then invite negotiations under the Spanish construction of the protocol.

The American commissioners may then communicate their final attitude to the Spaniards, but the Americans are expected at a future meeting to present a carefully prepared conclusion of their contention and conditions. Should they be no different from those already presented, the time will then have arrived when Spain will declare herself helpless, though steadfast, and will await the next step of the United States, whatever it may be.

Thus Spain will be able to say to her creditors that she has done her utmost, and that the issue must rest between them and the United States.

A traveling Postoffice.

The postoffice department has decided to make a new experiment in the rural free delivery system which is, in effect, the establishment of traveling postoffice. Some time ago a resident of Westminister, Md., wrote to the department offering to build such a postoffice, to be drawn by two horses and to establish a system between Westminister and surrounding villages, covering a distance of thirty miles, for $1,375 a year; the plan was accepted last week.

The wagon will be similar to the postoffice wagons in use in the cities. The postman will start from Westminister in the morning and visit a number of small towns in the vicinity, collecting and delivering mail en route. Any farmer living within two miles of the road along which the wagon passes will be allowed to place a letter box at the roadside, in which his mail can be deposited by the carrier, and from which the carrier will take the outgoing mail. At several small places where there is no postoffice a number of boxes will be put up, which will practica ly form an automatic postoffice.

The inventor of the scheme will act as postmaster, and will sell stamps, money orders, etc., stamp letters and assort them for the mails. While driving out in the morning he will assort the mail for delivery, and when returning he will prepare it to be placed on the train. He expects barely to make expenses, but the government will pay him a royalty on all similar wagons should the scheme be put in general operation. It is believed that by this method much more work can be done than by a single carrier.

DOUBLE DEALING.

Is the Cause of Many Heart Burnings A Bellefonte Case That of the Opposite.

Double dealing, like so many other expressions of the Anglo-Saxon language, has different meanings. The text or heading does not refer to the deceitful, hypocritical specimens of manhood who curry favor for their own ends and keep the community in a ferment by retailing scraps of confidence. This time 'tis the double dealing of the little conqueror, Doan's Kidney Pills—to be more correct—the double healing. One member of a family tests them and like disease the infection spreads—another tries them, the result is the same, a cure. Read the statement that follows made by

Mr. Curtis Johnson, of 583 Bishop St., freight and truckman, who says: "I had backache and lameness across my loins for a year or more. At times the lameness was so acute I could lift nothing, and if I stooped it was impossible for me to straighten up. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidneys the whole time and I had a dull, tired feeling which took away all my ambition. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. Potts Green's drug store and they soon freed me from the whole combination of troubles and they did it quickly and thoroughly. My wife was also suffering from a tiresome, grinding backache and she used Doan's Kidney Pills and they invigorated her generally. She now speaks of them as highly as I do. We never came across any remedy which surpassed Doan's Kidney Pills.

An Island that is Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Nov., 17.—The acquisition of an island in the Caroline group owned by Spain, will be part of the work of the Paris peace commission. Cable communication between the United States and Manila via Honolulu is regarded as desirable should we occupy the islands, and the distance between Honolulu and Guam island in the Ladrone group is so great as to make an intermediary station necessary. Officials believe that one of the Caroline islands would be useful as an intermediary station. The acquisition of either of two of the Caroline islands which are considered suitable for a cable station would involve a money consideration and the United States will pay Spain a reasonable price for relinquishment.

TRAGIC ENDING!

Bank President Takes His Own Life.

NO SIGNS OF ANY AGITATION

Were Visible on the Part of the Man Who, After the Government Closed the Bank, Committed Suicide.

WHAT THE BANK EXAMINER SAYS

EMPORIA, Kas., November 17.—Yesterday afternoon the First National bank of Emporia was closed, by order of the comptroller of the treasury. An hour later Charles S Cross, the bank's president and one of the best known breeders of Herefords in the west, shot and killed himself at "Sunny Slope," his famous stock farm near town.

Speculation is said to have led to Cross's downfall. His fortune has doubtless gone with the bank. Among the heavy losers by the failure are Lyon county and the city of Emporia. All the city and county funds were deposited in the institution. Cross was custodian of his father's estate, which is also said to be in wrecked condition.

Cross's ending was tragic. To the majority of the people of the town the comptroller's card in the doors of the bank came as a surprise, but in financial circles both here and in the state the result has been anticipated for six months. Examiner Charles Jobez, who closed the bank on order from the comptroller, has been going over its books with the aid of President Cross for the past week. No signs of mental agitation on the part of the bank president has been displayed, and when Cross left the bank yesterday, ten minutes before it closed, he seemed no different from usual. He went immediately to Sunny Slope farm, and speaking pleasantly to the employes passed into the bed room of Manager Evan's house. When he did not come out Evans entered the room. He found Cross lying in a pool of blood with a pistol in his hand. One shot had been fired and it went through the back of the head. Death must have been instantaneous. The news of the suicide was on the streets of Emporia a few minutes after the white card appeared upon the bank doors and created a most intense sensation.

The bank's statement had been growing bad, first causing comment last May. The statement issued on September 20 last did not materially improve. Small withdrawals of deposits resulted, but most of the business men kept faith in the bank, and up to 10 o'clock yesterday heavy deposits were made.

The last statement issued showed liabilities, capital, $100,000; surplus and profits, $101,289.53; due to depositors, banks and bankers, $513,-599,42; circulation, $22,500; total resources, $737,888.95.

Examiner Jobez has been wrestling with the problem of the assets for a week and it is authentically reported that he had found them badly shrunken. To a reporter he said:

"While I do not know exactly what the outcome of this matter may be, still I think I am justified in saying that the depositors will not suffer seriously. Yet when a thing like this occurs it tops off 25 per cent of the assets of the bank at one blow."

William Martindale, vice president of the bank, has been regarded by common-sense for many years as one of the solidest men in Cansas. Cross was the son of the late Colonel Harrison C. Cross, who died a few years ago and who was believed to have been worth several hundred thousand dollars at the time of his death.

Cross leaves a widow and a daughter. His first wife was Miss Kate Smeed, daughter of a former president of the Union Pacific railway. They were divorced in the '70's.

THERE is an eager, strained look on the faces of the democratic managers just now. They are hunting for a new issue.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS!

Chamberlain's Speech Disquiets French Circles.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS QUESTION

London Times Says the Spanish Suggestion of Arbitration Is Not Only Futile, But Also Absurd.

SOME NEWS COMES FROM MADRID

PARIS, November 17.—The speech of Joseph Chamberlain, British secretary of state for the colonies, at Manchester on Tuesday, has had a disquieting effect upon French official circles, where it had been expected that the evacuation of Fashoda would satisfy Great Britain.

Mr. Chamberlain's statements are regarded here as indicating Great Britain's desire to discuss and settle all questions pending, while she is in a state of preparedness to exert pressure in support of her views.

High officials suggest that the result of the British attitude may be a close understanding between France and Germany on colonial matters. They say such an understanding would meet with the support of Russia, would find ardent adherents among French officers and would be welcomed by the French nation at large.

The Soir says: "M. Lockroy, minister of marine, may be compelled to resign owing to his attitude, which is antagonistic to that of his colleagues in the cabinet, regarding the proposed prosecution of Urbain Gohier, author of 'L'Armée Centre La Nation,' which attacks the present army system in France. It appears that M. Lockroy, before entering the cabinet had congratulated M. Gohier on the book and that this explains his present attitude of reserve."

The Soir says also: "The national defense group in the chamber met today and instructed their executive committee to interview M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, with regard to Mr. Chamberlain's speech. It was also decided to propose as the order of the day in the chamber on Friday a resolution pledging the government to assure the efficiency of the national defense."

LONDON, November 17.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times, referring to the strictures of some Austrian newspapers on America's action regarding the Philippines, says:

"These attacks, I can positively assert, in no way represents the attitude of the government. Neither Emperor Francis Joseph nor any of his advisers ever had the remotest intention of attempting to exert influence upon the negotiations between Washington and Madrid. On the contrary, the Austro-Hungarian government has been perfectly neutral throughout and would probably even be content to see the Spanish administration in the Philippines superseded.

"It is not even certain that Germany would prove irreconcilable to American annexation of the archipelago, but looking to the suspicion German conduct has aroused, it is quite time for Germany officially to declare her policy.

The Times, commenting editorially this morning upon the Spanish suggestion of arbitration regarding the Philippines, refers to it as "obviously futile and absurd."

"The Spanish cabinet," says the Times, "has no real intention of breaking off the negotiations. It is only prolonging them in order to familiarize the public mind in Spain with the inevitable concessions. Certainly there is no need for the United States to send a fleet to Spain, as they could easily enforce submission without that. Spain would be foolish to sulk and thus lose the money compensation America is now willing to pay."

POPULAR VERDICT AT THE BALLOT BOX

The Late State Campaign and the Significance of Colonel William A. Stone's Election.

THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN.

The Guerrilla Methods of John Wanamaker and Silas C. Swallow Have Been Repudiated by the Sovereign Voters of Pennsylvania, Who Have Reaffirmed Their Devotion to Republican Principles.

(Special Correspondence.)

Harrisburg, Nov. 15.—The battle of the ballots has been fought and won. Colonel William A. Stone has been chosen governor of Pennsylvania by a majority of 119,326 over George A. Jenks, the Democratic nominee. Such a majority under ordinary circumstances would be remarkable. Under existing circumstances, considering the character of the campaign waged, the majority is a phenomenal one.

Genuine Republicanism has been vindicated, and guerrilla methods, as applied to political warfare, have been repudiated.

The fight against Colonel Stone was conceived in vindictiveness and born in hatred. The day following John Wanamaker's defeat for the United States senate, in January, 1897, he registered a vow to destroy, if possible, the political leaders whom he held responsible for his undoing, even though it should be necessary to smash the Republican party to bring about that result. A program was outlined and agreed upon, and the campaign for vengeance was begun. A newspaper and literary bureau was established at Harrisburg, and the work of "educating" the people was begun. Information was sent out day after day regarding the movements of those members of the legislature who had not voted for Mr. Wanamaker, facts being distorted, misrepresentation being indulged in, and falsehood being resorted to whenever everything else failed. This was kept up until the close of the session in July of that year. As the inevitable result of this sort of work, continued day after day, the minds of the people became impregnated with the poison, insidiously instilled into them, until, when the legislature adjourned, the public was disposed to believe it the most corrupt and extravagant body that had ever met at Harrisburg, whereas it was not one whit worse than any one of its predecessors, and, so far as extravagance went, not nearly so bad as the legislature of 1895, immediately preceding.

That was the first chapter in the Wanamaker campaign of vengeance.

The newspaper and literary bureau was continued, one of the shrewdest newspaper men in Pennsylvania being in charge. Week after week the smut mills of the Wanamaker bureau ground out the poison throughout the balance of 1897 and until the close of the polls on the 8th of November of the present year, such interior state newspapers as were under the control of or in sympathy with the Wanamaker program being the vehicle through which the vile stuff reached the people.

The second stage of the conspiracy was attained early in 1898, when it was determined to defeat Colonel William A. Stone for the governorship, if at all possible. No serious effort was put forth at the primaries to elect delegates, but a bluff fight was made in the interest of Mr. Wanamaker, simply to create public sentiment against Colonel Stone, to be used later on, after the state convention, for the benefit of Swallow or of the Democratic nominee, as might be deemed best, at the proper time for decision.

But a difficulty confronted the cabal of Wanamaker schemers. After the most critical scrutiny of Colonel Stone's public record and private life, both were found to be absolutely without a flaw. In no possible manner could there be any personal assault made upon him, nor was there throughout the memorable campaign just closed. There never was another such conspicuous case. Even Colonel Roosevelt, the Republican gubernatorial candidate in New York, was viciously assailed upon personal grounds, but Colonel Stone was not. Mr. Wanamaker and his henchmen were in desperation, compelled to resort to the silly expedient of piling upon Colonel Stone's back all the sins of commission and omission, real and manufactured, of the last legislature, in spite of the fact that his duties as a member of congress kept him continuously in Washington, preventing him, had he been otherwise disposed, from making a single visit to Harrisburg while the legislature of 1897 was in session.

From the moment of Colonel Stone's nomination for governor, in June last, up to the close of the polls a week ago, he was made the target of the mud guns mounted behind the earthworks of the Wanamaker bureau, and this was supplemented by the oratorical tirades of Mr. Wanamaker, Dr. Swallow and the smaller fry from the stump. In nearly every county, moreover, the Republican candidates for the legislature were assailed, despite the fact that out of 229 nominees only 73 were members of the last legislature, and of these only 36 had voted for Mr. Penrose for the United States senate.

Not content with vilifying Colonel Stone and the Republican candidates for the state senate and house of representatives, the mud batteries of the opposition were leveled against Senator Quay, loaded to the muzzle with vituperation, misrepresentation and falsehood, the brutal attacks upon him culminating in his sensational arrest, for political effect, 24 days before the election.

The combined work of the notorious literary bureau and of Mr. Wanamaker and Dr. Swallow upon the stump was supplemented by the support of four Philadelphia morning papers — The Press, The Times, The Ledger and The Record, to each one of whom Mr. Wanamaker pays yearly $40,000 for the six column store advertisement which appears six days each week in these papers.

But all of these agencies were of little consequence compared with that finally resorted to, to wit: the employment of vast sums of money at the close of the canvass and on election day. As is well known, Mr. Wanamaker is a multi-millionaire, he being worth, so it is understood, about $15,000,000. He is a free spender, as was demonstrated in his campaign for the United States senate two years ago, and his agents are not too particular as to methods of expenditure, as will appear by reference to the court records of Schuylkill county, in the famous Van Valkenburg case.

It was toward the close of the campaign that the Wanamaker barrel was tapped, and its contents distributed throughout the state, "where they would do the most good."

Finally came the 8th of November, a day long to be remembered. The day of the scandal monger, the political libeler, the public falsifier, was over! The day of the plain, everyday voter was at hand! Every form of misrepresentation and deception, written, printed and spoken, had been indulged in for months, but the case was now before the most majestic jury upon earth—the voters themselves, face to face with the ballot box.

The verdict of that jury is known to all men. By a vote of almost half a million freemen—473,068, to be exact—being 119,326 more than the vote given his nearest competitor, Mr. Jenks—Colonel William A. Stone has been chosen chief magistrate of the old Keystone state. As the result of this verdict, moreover, a legislature has been elected in which the Republican majority is overwhelming—almost two to one, indeed.

And thus have the sovereign people spoken; and, in speaking, they have repudiated John Wanamaker, Silas C. Swallow and the whole coterie of demagogues, who, for weeks, have traveled up and down the state, maligning their fellow citizens and seeking to overthrow Republicanism in the citadel of its strength. The campaign of vengeance has come to naught. The Republican party of Pennsylvania emerges from the contest stronger than ever. And Governor Stone and the incoming legislature will demonstrate to the people of the state that the affairs of government and legislation are safe in Republican hands.

SENATOR QUAY TO SUCCEED HIMSELF.

In Graphic Language He Announces His Candidacy, and Says He Is Sure to Win.

OFFERS A REWARD OF $10,000

Denounces Wanamaker Methods, and Declares That Any Attempt to Purchase the United States Senatorship Will Ignominiously Fail, as It Did in the Wanamaker-Penrose Contest of 1896.

(Special Correspondence.)

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The great battle for the United States senatorship has been fought and won. Senator Matthew Stanley Quay will surely be chosen his own successor in January next, when the legislature shall convene at Harrisburg. It is well known among Senator Quay's close friends that he was strongly disinclined to accept a re-election. He is now past 62 years of age, and his two terms in the senate have given him all the honors incident to service in that body. His own inclinations and instincts lead him away from the turmoil of public life. He is never so content as when resting at his far away retreat in Florida, unless in the retirement of his wonderful library—the most comprehensive private collection of books in the state. Except for the villainous attacks made upon him during the past few months by his jealous enemies he would undoubtedly have declined a re-election. As it is he is not only a candidate, but his triumphant return to the senate is certain. He is now in Florida, enjoying a much needed rest, preparatory to the resumption of his senatorial duties at Washington when congress shall meet next month. Just before leaving for the south he gave out the following signed statement:

"Throughout the remarkable campaign just closed I declined to give expression to any opinion regarding the issues involved or the methods resorted to by the enemies of Republicanism, though persistently urged to speak. It may not be out of place to briefly do so, now that the battle is over and the victory won. There has never been such a contest in Pennsylvania or any other commonwealth. Those engaged in the warfare against the Republican candidates and against those conspicuous in the councils of the party cast issues and principles to the four winds, and the contest was a man hunt, pure and simple.

"Vilification and misrepresentation took the place of argument and logic, and the passion of man was appealed to rather than his reason. Never in the history of American politics did personal abuse reach such a high tide of development, not even in the days of Alexander Hamilton, who was hounded by malicious enemies as no man in political life had ever been before. The result in Pennsylvania is not only personally gratifying to me, but it must be to every fairminded Republican in the state.

"The sovereign people have, by their emphatic verdict, set the seal of condemnation upon the hideous methods of campaigning resorted to in the late contest by the enemies of the Republican party. The falsifier, the scandal monger, the libeler, has been repudiated by the people, and never again will the present generation witness the performances of this brood of character assassins.

"Despite the extraordinary efforts to defeat Republican candidates for the legislature, which have been successful in a number of counties, the general assembly will be overwhelmingly Republican, the political complexion of the two bodies being as follows:

"Senate—Republicans, 38; Democrats, 12. House—Republicans, 127; Democrats, 74; independents, 3.

"The legislature will comprise, therefore, 165 Republicans, 86 Democrats and 3 independents, a Republican majority on joint ballot of 76, or nearly two-thirds. Regarding the United States senatorship, I can only say this: All of my friends have been aware of my personal antipathy to another term in the senate, but those prominent in the late crusade against the Republican state and legislative candidates chose to force the issue.

"They have made it imperative that I shall be a candidate for re-election. The gage of battle is accepted. The result is in the hands of the Republican members of the incoming legislature, a very large proportion of whom are my political and personal friends.

"Of the result there can be no possible doubt. Throughout the campaign just closed enormous sums of money were used to defeat Republican legislative candidates. I have no doubt efforts will be made to tamper with some of the members-elect, but they will not be successful. The attempt to purchase the United States senatorship two years ago did not succeed then, nor will a similar attempt succeed now, bargain counter methods having been repudiated by the people of this state.

"Should, however, any attempt be made to bribe legislators-elect the same leniency will not be shown as in the Van Valkenburg case. That there may be no mistake regarding my position in this matter, I hereby offer a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one endeavoring to bribe any state senator or representative-elect. The money for payment of this reward is on deposit with George A. Huhn & Sons bankers and brokers, Philadelphia.

"M. S. QUAY."

As indicated in Senator Quay's statement, there is absolutely no question of his election. The Republican majority in the legislature on joint ballot, while not as large as in 1897, is overwhelming, being nearly two to one, as shown in the figures given by Senator Quay. Nearly all of the Republican state senators and representatives-elect are friends of Senator Quay's. The fact is, the Wanamaker contingent at the primaries last summer and spring succeeded in nominating their legislative candidates in not over three counties in the state—in only one county, indeed, where there was a contest. It was for this reason that, during the last campaign, their only hope of defeating Senator Quay lay in the direction of a Democratic legislature. And, in furtherance of this policy, the Wanamaker people poured stupendous sums of money into certain Republican districts and counties, whereby Democratic senators and members were chosen to the next legislature. This was particularly the case in Chester, Montgomery, Blair, Venango, Cambria, Union, Mifflin, Juniata, Cameron and elsewhere. Similar attempts were made in at least 20 other counties, but failed. If Mr. Wanamaker had had his way the next senator from Pennsylvania would have been a Democrat. Thanks, however, to the sterling Republicanism of Pennsylvania and to the incorruptibility of hundreds of thousands of her citizens, who declined to be led astray either by the debauchery of the anti-Quay crowd or by their campaign of misrepresentations and lies, the purposes and plans of the latter have come to naught, and Pennsylvania will return Colonel Quay to the senate to uphold the administration of President McKinley. If the Wanamaker-Swallow contingent had been successful a free silver Democrat would have gone to the senate to oppose the splendid foreign policy of our splendid president. But "the best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gley." Republicanism triumphs and justice prevails.

What Politics Will Do.

Someone has given the following definition of American politics:

American politics, is what, you ask, gentlemen? I have found it to be a game of character blackening played by liars. A game where the winner loses, and the loser is ruined. A game that forfeits warmest business friendships, and sows the seeds of discord in communities. In truth, sirs, it is a noble game. To the victor belong the spoils. The cards? Well, take a knave, a dollar, and a lie, and you hold a hand to win if cutely played.

Honor in politics! bah. Honor is dead. Long live King Honor. Are you a candidate good sir? Yes! well, then God pity you. You are in hell before your time. And you expect what for your reward, glory? And what are you wading through? Servilism, hypocrisy, cant, false promises, to what? An office, elevated just enough to make you a target for every little soul to throw mud at. You enter the game a man, you end ruined in body, sick at heart, and broken in pocket. You have trimmed your sails to prevailing winds, but the day comes when the storm breaks and wrecks you.

Ah, the devil is a knowing spirit. One day he found a class greedy and ambitious, who could not be caught with wine, women, or cards, and then he invented the game of politics.

—That everlasting and famous dramatic success "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be at Garman's Opera house Tuesday Nov. 22. It will be presented by Al. W. Martins's big company of 60 people and staged with over ten thousand dollars worth of gorgeous scenery. The dramatic portion is in the hands of capable actors; the part of "Uncle Tom" is played by the famous old man negro impersonator, Milt G. Barlow. Incidental to the play, a long list of specialties will be introduced by colored talent, which include buck and wing dancing, the original Georgia Jubilee shouters, in camp-meeting songs, the Alabama Quartette; a grand prize cake-walk, by entire company, and other novel acts. A free street parade will be given daily at noon, when one white and two colored bands, chariots, horses and donkeys will appear. This is undoubtedly the only complete, perfect and satisfactory music corps carried by a theatrical company, rendering delightful elevating musical entertainment.

Terrible Itching Sores Break Out, Preventing Rest Night or Day—How Relief Was Found.

"I have been troubled for many years with itching sores on my face and hands. I could not rest night or day and the medicine I took did not relieve me, although I tried everything I could hear of. My husband one day got me a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began taking it with the very best results. I have taken seven bottles and am now cured." MRS. JAMES MCLAIN, Mount Arlington, N. J.

"Last winter I broke out with sores on my face. They were as large as a five cent piece. I heard people say so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla that I determined to try it. In a week after I began taking it the sores commenced to heal, and in a short time they were entirely cured." ARTHUR G. TUNISON, Karrsville, N. J.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Alleged Murderer of Henry Bonnecka Set at Liberty.

SPENT THREE YEARS IN JAIL

District Attorney of Blair County Would Not Put Taxpayers to the Expense of a Second Trial of the Case.

SO FRANK WILSON GOES FREE

After spending three years as a prisoner in Blair county jail at Hollidaysburg, Frank Wilson, who was charged with the murder of Henry Bonnecka, an aged recluse of Altoona, was suddenly set free at 5.30 last evening, the county authorities deciding not to go to the expense of the new trial ordered in his case by the supreme court.

James Farrell, his supposed companion in crime, who has also been in jail for three years and two days, will shortly be removed to the western penitentiary at Pittsburg, where he will serve out a sentence of three years for robbing Bonnecka two months before the latter's death. Farrell will not be held for murder either.

The unexpected climax to those most sensational homicide cases was brought about in the court room at Hollidaysburg yesterday afternoon. Judge Beil and his clerks were interrupted in their duty of computing the election returns by the appearance of District Attorney Hammond and R. A. Henderson Esq.

Frank Wilson, pale and emaciated by reason of his long confinement, was brought in by Sheriff Hare. District Attorney Hammond addressed the court, reviewing the cases at length, and stating his reasons why there should be a summary ending to the proceedings. Wilson and Farrell have been convicted of murder in the first degree by a Blair county jury and the sentence of death was imposed upon them Nov., 24, 1897. The total cost of the cases to the county approximates $40,000 a detective agency wanting about three-fourth of this sum. The case on appeal to the supreme court was reversed and a new trial ordered. By avoiding a new trial the county will save probably $7,000. Mr. Hammond reasserted his belief in the guilt of Wilson and Farrell, but he felt that gathered circumstances, such as the death of some important witnesses, etc., might impede a second conviction. He therefore asked that the prisoners be discharged so far as the murder case was concerned.

Henry Bonnecka was found dead in his house, on Sixteenth street Altoona, on April 7, 1895. Farrell and Wilson was tried, convicted of murder in the first degree, and the death sentence was imposed upon them. Wilson while in jail professed repentance for a misspent life and ingratiated himself into the confidence of a few ladies of Hollidaysburg, who attended gospel meeting at the county prison. These good women attended to securing evidence to be presented to the courts and they also interviewed the supreme court justices at Philadelphia when the cases were before that tribunal. The chief errors assigned by the supreme court, why new trials should be granted, related to the conduct and compensation of the detectives. Justice Williams, who delivered the opinions of the higher court, strongly condemned the methods of detective agencies and insisted that the action of the operators should be subjected to close scrutiny. Wilson says he will remain in Altoona and will there lead a strictly upright life.

Sheriff Hare was a very busy man after the prisoners had been discharged. The second trial of the Wilson case had been scheduled for next Monday, and it was necessary to notify the jurymen and witnesses not to come to court, as their attendance in the cases will no longer be necessary. Witnesses had been subpoenaed at Philadelphia, Camden, N. J., Pittsburg and Johnstown. The operators of the Barring-McSweeney detective agency has served the commonwealth's subpoenas and Sheriff Hare served the defendant's subpoenas. The county pays for the service on both sides.—Tyrone Herald.

The Meteoric Showers.

A correspondent writes the Pittsburg Times as follows: "Will you please inform me through your columns of the expected meteoric display on the 13th and 27th inst.?" To answer this question it will be necessary to give some idea of what meteors are supposed to be, together with some history concerning their most noted appearances. The name is derived from the Greek word "meteoros" signifying lofty or in the air, and is applied to any phenomenon of short duration occurring in the atmosphere. Rain, snow, hail, fog and dew are meteors distinguished as aqueous; the movements of the winds constitute the varieties of aerial meteors; luminous meteors are the singular phenomena displayed by the action of the aqueous particles diffused through the atmosphere upon the rays of light, such as fata, Morgana, halo, mirage, rainbow, etc, and may include the aurora borealis; and igneous meteors are such phenomena as lightening, aerolites, shooting stars, etc. In common language the term meteor is applied only to those bodies which, as globes of fire or as shooting stars, are occasionally seen darting through the heavens at unknown distances from the earth, and in undetermined paths. Sometimes exploding and projecting upon the earth fragments of stone called meteoric iron, they are proved to be solid bodies in a state of intense heat, and are then known as aerolites or meteorolites. The Chinese records of such phenomena date back to 644 B. C., and from that date to A. D. 333 16 falls of aerolites are recorded. By the Greeks and Romans in the same period accounts are preserved of only four such falls. Humbolt says that it is remarkable that the Ionian school, in accordance with the present opinion, early assumed the cosmical origin of meteoric stone. It held that the meteors are masses torn away from the earth by the violence of the rotation, and that between the earth and the moon revolve other dark bodies, which can produce eclipses of the moon. The records of fire balls, as seen in the evenings, are numerous. They appear at particular season, and are limited to no particular portion of the earth. On the evening of July 20, 1860, a most remarkable meteor passed over New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

GERMANY'S RULER!

His Proposed Visit to Two Spanish Ports.

IT IS VIEWED AS UNFORTUNATE

By Officials in Washington, Especially as the Paris Conference is Just Now in a Critical Stage.

AN UNDERCURRENT OF ILL FEELING

Washington, Nov. 14.—It is understood that assurance have been given by the German government that the visit of Emperor William of Germany to Spain is entirely devoid of official character or significance; that the official trip of the imperial party ended when they left Palestine, and that the proposed stop at Cadiz and Cartagena is largely a health precaution in behalf of the empress as the sea trip would be long and arduous if unbroken by these stops at the Spanish ports. The assurance appear to be voluntary on the part of the Berlin officials and to be in line with the care taken in that quarter of late to minimize and remove the bad impression caused by several incidents occurring during the recent war.

The state department had not, so far as is known, taken cognizance of the emperor's movements, and certainly there was no purpose of inquiring as to the stop at Spain, although this action by the emperor was looked upon as rather inopportune, to say the least, when the peace negotiations with Spain are at a critical juncture, and when, technically the war is still in progress. At the same time, Germany has constantly reiterated her neutral and friendly attitude and the emperor himself took occasion in his address to the reichstag to give strong expression to the German purpose to maintain the strictest impartiality between this government and Spain. At the same time, the officials here and in Berlin have recognized that a strong sentiment of animosity was being developed between the people of the two countries and steps have been taken to offset this as far as possible.

The last move in that direction was at a recent dinner given by Chancellor Von Bulow at Berlin to Andrew D. White, the United States ambassador, and Dr. Von Holleben, the German ambassador to the United States, now visiting in Germany. It was intended that the new assistant secretary of state, Mr. Hill, should be one of the guests, but he was detained in Holland. Private advices received here by officials state that the meeting was important as furnishing an opportunity for a free and full discussion of all the subjects which have threatened to estrange the two governments and for the establishment of a much more friendly understanding. It is recognized, however, among officials, state and diplomatic, that while official sentiment is satisfactory, there continues to be an undercurrent of ill feeling with the public and press of the two countries. For this reason the present movement of the emperor in stopping at the Spanish ports causes something of a shock in diplomatic quarters, as it is felt to be one more obstacle in the way of the happy approachment which was being executed by the authorities here and at Berlin.

With a view of minimizing the visit, the assurances are now communicated as to its non official character. The suggestion that the emperor may be asked by Spain to act as an arbitrator between the United States and Spain in case the Philippine issue becomes acute is dismissed as absurd, on the ground that no such plan would be considered for a moment unless both countries joined in a request for it. The arrival of the emperor at Cadiz and Cartagena is awaited with considerable apprehension by the German authorities, as it may give rise to a Spanish popular demonstration open to misconstruction in this country. With a view of avoiding such an affair the German charge d' affaires at Madrid has been instructed to notify the Spanish government of the strictly unofficial character of the emperor's visit.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

HARRISBURG, November 14.—Governor Hastings issued the following proclamation Saturday evening:

In accordance with a time-honored custom and pursuant to the proclamation of the president of the United States, I, Daniel H. Hastings, governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 24th day of November, 1898, as the annual day of Thanksgiving to be observed by the citizens of this commonwealth.

Not since the war which threatened the destruction of the union and which brought peace to a reunited country have the people of Pennsylvania and of the country had so great cause for giving thanks to Almighty God, upon whose favor the happiness and true greatness of our people must always depend. Prosperity has reigned within our borders, but the peace of our country, which has continued for a third of a century, has been interrupted by war, made necessary in the cause of humanity and in the interest of the peace of the world for the years that are to come. The patriotism of our entire people has been made prominent by the events that have transpired within the last six months; has given new strength to our government; has added much to the love we have for our country. The horrors of war cannot be palliated and the losses that we have sustained we know have brought sorrow to a large number of the homes in our state, yet we should all be thankful for the results that have been accomplished.

To this end let our usual places of worship be attended by the citizens of our commonwealth on this day set apart for thanksgiving and prayer, and let us all renew our devotion to our country's best interests and render thanks to Him to whom we owe every blessing.

DANIEL H. HASTINGS.

Better Off in Heaven.

When a girl of 16 is seen upon the streets she has a cute way of tossing her head as though she owned the earth and was going to the middle of the next block to get it. After she is 18 the world she owns is about as far away as the world's fair was to the most of us, and at 20 she gives up all hope of ever getting it at all. By the time she is 25 she has a faint, vague suspicion that there is a great deal of insincerity in the world, and the thing for her to do is to get a position and something useful. After a while she gets married to a man who isn't at all the sort of a man she dreamed of. Then she concludes she will be better off in heaven.

The Old Bucktail Flag.

Members of the Bucktails in this city will be interested in the following, which is taken from the Wellsboro Agitator: Recently Captain J. N. Morgan, of this borough, received from Alonzo Howland, of Edgewood, Georgia, the old flag which was made by the ladies of this borough, and presented to Company E, of the First Rifles, or Bucktails, and carried all through 1861 as the regimental flag. This flag was carried in several skirmishes and also at the battle of Dranesville, Va., where it was torn by a rebel shell. In the fall of 1861 Governor Curtin presented the Bucktails with a silk flag, as well as all the other regiments in the Pennsylvania Reserves. The old flag is 4 feet 7 inches by 8 feet 4 inches in size and it has 34 stars. It is made of merino, and the colors are still bright. Perhaps there are a number of patriotic women in this borough who remember helping to sew on it.—Lock Haven Democrat.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at F. Potts Green's Drug Store.

Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

War Has Cost 2,906 Lives.

Commissioner of Pensions Evans states that up to September 30th the war with Spain had caused the loss of the lives of 2,906 American soldiers and sailors. Of this number 107 were officers. At Santiago the loss of life was 22 officers and 222 men. This is an average of one officer for every ten men. At Cardenas one officer was killed. Since the battles on Cuban soil 61 men have died of wounds received in service.

The total number of American soldiers that have died in camps from disease are 80 officers and 2,520 privates, or an aggregate of 2,600. There have been 600 claims for pensions filed to date as a result of the war.

"Thus far only fifty-five claims have been presented from relatives of the boys who went down with the Maine," said the commissioner. "Every one of them will be pushed through."

During the rebellion 40,000 men were killed in battle and 360,000 perished in camps and prisons. The civil war was about twelve times as long as the Spanish war.

Probably Fatally Wounded.

Robert Dawson, of Williamsport, who was a member of Company G, Twelfth regiment, was accidently shot and probably fatally wounded Friday while returning from a hunting trip. Dawson in company with a friend had crossed the river at Williamsport in a boat. As the boat reached the shore Dawson picked up his gun by the end of the muzzle. As he stepped to the shore the trigger caught on either the seat or the gunwale of the boat and was discharged. The charge struck Dawson's right hand, which was partly over the muzzle, tearing the inside of it out, and charge lodged in his right breast tearing his lung badly.

Rudyard Kipling for Everybody.

If continual talk about him in the newspapers is an indication, Rudyard Kipling must be the most popular of living authors. A vast number of readers must, therefore, welcome a pretty and wonderfully cheap edition of his "Departmental Ditties, Barrack-Room Ballads and Other Verses," just issued by the famous cheap-book publishing house, Hurst & Co., 135 Grand St., New York, at the price of only 35 cents. You may get it of any bookseller, or from the publishers, who will send their complete catalogue to any applicant.

The Largest County.

The Lock Haven Democrat says: Clinton county embraces 857 square miles and embraces 548,480 acres. The smallest county in the state is Lebanon, which has 356 square miles and 227,840 acres. Centre county, our neighbor, is the largest county, containing 1,227 square miles and 785,280 acres. The next largest county is Lycoming, our neighbor on the east, which contains 1,213 square miles and 776,320 acres.

Blank Kisses While the Cars Waited.

It happened at Fifth and Walnut streets, at an hour when the streets were crowded. The flagman had signalled an approaching northeast electric railway car to stop and give the right of way to a south bound Westport car. Standing in the centre of the network of tracks were two women. It was evident that they had met by chance after a long seperation. They rushed into each other's arms and were smothering each other's faces with kisses.

"Look out ahead!" shouted the gripman on the cable car at the top of his voice. The flagman waved his club frantically about his head and elevated his voice in an effort to attract the attention of the women. But they stood as if glued to the spot and were deaf to the cries of danger. One more embrace, one more kiss, and then one of the women happened to glance over her shoulder and beheld the gripman yanking away at the brakes in an effort to bring his car to a standstill. The air about was perfectly blue.

"Oh, dear me, there comes a car," is all she said. Taking her friend by the arm, they strolled leisurely toward the sidewalk.

"I'd be willing to wager my last cent," said the gripman to the conductor, as the latter came forward to ascertain what was wrong, "that two women would stop to kiss each other if they were falling out of a balloon."

Appendicitis.

That there is really no medical cure for appendicitis, even though some cases recover without operation, says the Medical News, is the opinion of many eminent physicians, and, according to experience, although it is a surgical disease, operation may not be necessary in every case, from the fact that the ailment, itself, is a stoppage of the drainage from the appendix to the colon, and preliminary treatment is often worse than useless. Thus the opium treatment, though relieving pain and discomfort, entirely masks the symptoms at a most important time, for it is in the first 24 hours from the beginning of the attack that physicians can decide not only as to the diagnosis, but as to the probable course and result of the case. It is found, for instance, that if there is no increase in urgency in five or six hours the patient is not in immediate danger when kept at perfect rest in bed, and if in 24 hours there is still no increase in the severity of the symptoms the patient should begin to improve. On the other hand, if the urgency of the case has steadily increased in twelve hours from the time when the diagnosis was made an operation will probably be called for. After two attacks a patient is sure to have a third.

To Arrest Andrew Carnegie.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Justice Lawrence in the supreme court yesterday issued an order directing the sheriff to arrest Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire iron and steel manufacturer.

The application for Mr. Carnegie's arrest was made by Assistant Corporation Counsel George H. Cowie, who appeared in behalf of Henry Winthrop Gray, special commissioner of jurors. Mr. Carnegie was served with a notice by Commissioner Gray on November 1 to appear before him on November 10 to testify as to his qualifications to act as a special juror. Mr. Carnegie did not present himself and Corporation Counsel Whalen directed a motion to be made for his arrest. The warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Dunn and will be executed as soon as possible.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy
CURES ALL KIDNEY, STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLES.

—This is the week of prayer at the U. B. church at this place. Next week their revival services will start.

Does Your Back Ache?

In constant pain when on your feet?
Is that dragging, pulling sensation with you from morn till night?
Why not put the medicine exactly on the disease? Why not apply the cure right to the spot itself?
You can do it with

Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plaster

Immediately after the Plaster is applied, you feel its warming, soothing influence. Its healing remedies quickly penetrate down deep into the inflamed tissues. Pain is quieted, soreness is relieved and strength imparted.

No plaster was ever made like it. No plaster ever acted so quickly and thoroughly. No plaster ever had such complete control over all kinds of pain.

Placed over the chest it is a powerful aid to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral; relieving congestion and drawing out all inflammation.

Interesting Course of Art Lectures at the College.

We are informed that the Department of Industrial Art at the College has been so fortunate as to secure a course of three lectures on Art to be given November 17, 18 and 19, by Mr. George Breed Zug of Pittsburg. The lectures are to be illustrated by photographs which Mr. Zug personally collected in Italy, and the collection has been said to be the finest west of the Alleghenies.

Mr. Zug is already known as a lecturer in Boston, Philadelphia, at Bryn Mawr College and other places as well as in Pittsburg, and the public is anticipating a rare treat.

The time of the lectures has been set at 4 o'clock p. m., in order to give the people of Bellefonte and places in the vicinity an opportunity to attend.

Course tickets for the three lectures, only $1.00. Single ticket 35 cents.

Flowers In the House.

The ordinary furnace heated house is a bad place in which to grow plants. The air seems to have had all the dampness removed and that moist condition so conductive to a good growth in plants is not found. This may in a measure be overcome by means of evaporation, which, while not supplying a great amount of moisture, should do something towards relieving the bad condition of the atmosphere. Place jars or pans of water in, around or about the furnace, hang buckets of water down inside the furnace pipes below the registers, or place them anywhere that rapid evaporation may be induced. Keep all the plants in light, airy locations, but away from drafts. It may seem strange to some, but the very best place in the house, if the temperature can be maintained at an even point, is the kitchen, because of the constant evaporation of water as it puffs forth from the spout of the tea kettle.

BOy's Experience With a Gun.

While Charles Pflegher, of South Williamsport, was shooting at a tree a few days ago, the gun exploded, knocking the boy down. The weapon flew to pieces only the stock remaining. The boy's face was badly blistered by the powder.

—Roland I. Curtin, U. S. N., was married to Miss May Randolph Hammersly, a daughter of Lewis R. Hammersly, of New York, on Nov. 9. The ceremony was performed in New York city. The groom is the eldest son of General John I. Curtin, of this place, and is an ensign in the navy. It is he who had the honor of receiving the surrender of Ponce.

—During the wind storm Thursday the large flag stretched on a wire between the Bush house and the McClain block was blown down. One of the wires was attached to one of the chimneys on the Bush house and it fell with a crash to the pavement in front of the hotel office. Several men who were standing in front of the office at the time had a narrow escape from being struck by the falling brick. The engine stack at the Bellefonte aundry was also blown down during the evening.

QUAY A CANDIDATE.

He Accepts the Gage of Battle as Cast Down.

HE MAKES A PLAIN STATEMENT

Says Legislature is Republican and Offers a Reward of $10.000 for the Arrest of Persons Offering Bribes.

THE RECENT CAMPAIGN DISCUSSED

PHILADELPHIA, November 11.—Senator Quay, accompanied by Senator Penrose, left last night for Florida, where they will recover from the fatigues of the campaign at the senior senator's San Lucie cottage. Senator Quay will also entertain Senator Vest, of Missouri. His two sons, Major A. G. C. Quay and Richard R. Quay, and his brother, will also be members of the party. Before leaving Senator Quay gave out the following statement:

"Throughout the remarkable campaign just closed I declined to give expression to any opinion regarding the issues involved, or the methods resorted to by the enemies of republicanism, though persistently urged to speak. It may not be out of place to briefly do so now that the battle is over and the victory won. There has never been such a contest in Pennsylvania or any other commonwealth. Those engaged in the warfare against the republican candidates and against those conspicious in the councils of the party, cast issues and principles to the four winds and the contest was a man-hunt, pure and simple. Villification and misrepresentation took the place of argument and logic, and the passion of man was appealed to rather than his reason. Never in the history of American politics did personal abuse reach such a high tide of developement, not even in the days of Alexander Hamilton, who was hounded by malicious enemies as no man in political life had ever been before. The result in Pennsylvania is not only personally gratifying to me, but it must be to every fair-minded republican in the state. The sovereign people have, by their emphatic verdict, set the seal of condemnation upon the hideous methods of campaigning resorted to in the late contest by the enemies of the republican party. The falsifier, the scandal-monger, the libeller, has been repudiated by the people, and never again will the present generation witness the performance of this brood of character assassins.

"Despite the extraordinary efforts to defeat republican candidates for the legislature, which have been successful in a number of counties, the general assembly will be overwhelmingly republican, the political complexion of the two bodies being as follows: Senate—Republicans, 38, democrats, 12. House—Republicans, 127; democrats, 74; independents, 3. The legislature will comprise, therefore, 165 republicans, 86 democrats and three independents; a republican majority on joint ballot of 76, or nearly two-thirds. Regarding the United States senatorship, I can only say this:

"All of my friends have been aware of my personal antipathy to another term in the senate, but those prominent in the late crusade against the republican state and legislative candidates choose to force the issue. They have made it imperative that I shall be a candidate for re-election. The gage of battle is accepted. The result is in the hands of the republican members of the incoming legislature, a very large proportion of whom are my political and personal friends. Of the result there can be no possible doubt. Throughout the campaign just closed enormous sums of money were used to defeat republican legislative candidates. I have no doubt efforts will be made to tamper with some of the members elected, but they will not be successful. The attempt to purchase the United States senatorship two years ago, did not succeed then, nor will a similar attempt succeed now, bargain counter methods having been repudiated by the people of this state. Should, however, any attempt be made to bribe legislators elect, the same leniency will not be shown as in the Val Valkenburg case. That there may be no mistake regarding my position in this matter, I hereby offer a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one endeavoring to bribe any state senator or representative-elect. The money for payment of this reward is on deposit with George A. Huhn & Sons, bankers and brokers, Philadelphia."

"M. S. QUAY."

MUSTERED OUT.

The Last of Company B, Fifth Regiment Penn'a Vol's.

Company B, Fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, are no more. Thursday afternoon at twenty-five minutes of three Captain Hugh S. Taylor received from Capt. S. W. Miller, Fifth U. S. Infantry, his certificate of honorable discharge and the brave boys of Company B, who left here on April 27th last to go to Mt. Gretna to be mustered into the Federal service, became private citizens once again.

Ever since the 18th of October the company has been held here awaiting their discharge and there was much rejoicing among the boys when the officers appeared here Thursday. The medical examination took place about one week ago when Dr. McMasters, Fifth U. S. Cavalry, and Contract Surgeons Sedgwick and Liter were here. All of the men except two were found in as good physical condition as when they entered the service.

The mustering-out officers were Capt. S. W. Miller, Fifth U. S. Infantry, of Huntingdon; Additional Paymaster Maj. Lang, Washington, D. C, and clerks Harry H. Lang and Hyland C. Kirk, Washington, D. C.

The company was held in the armory from 9:00 o'clock until every man was discharged. They were all paid in full except the commissioned officers, who did not receive their pay. There were 102 men paid off and it took $6,200 to do it. The average pay to the men was $70.00, though some received as high as $96.00.

The boys were not long in scattering after being mustered out and those from different parts of the county soon left for home.

The Philipsburg boys left on the 4:44 train and were given a rousing send off by their comrades and friends in this place. They are a jolly set of fellows and have made many friends during their stay in Bellefonte.

The members of the company were all mustered out except those who were sick or absent from Bellefonte. They are Frank T. Wallace, who is confined to his bed at his home in Milesburg from injuries sustained by a fall from the train while on the road home from camp at Lexington; Clyde Long, of Howard, who lately suffered a relapse of typhoid fever; George B. Snyder, who is an instructor in the Soldiers' Orphan school at Chester Springs, and who will be discharged at Philadelphia; R. C. Daley, at home at Romola, still suffering from the effects of typhoid fever, and Samuel P. Bathurst, of Roland, who has suffered a relapse of typhoid fever.

Lieut. Kilburn, U. S. A., will arrive in Bellefonte in a few days to receive the government property.

The complete roster of the company is as follows:

PASSENGER TRAINS!

They Came in Collision on the Lehigh Valley.

IT WAS NEAR WILKESBARRE.

When the Trains Came Together There Was a Terrible Crash—A General Pile-Up Followed Afterward.

NO PASSENGERS WERE INJURED.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., November 12.—Two passenger trains were wrecked, five trainmen killed and five injured by a head-on collision on the Lehigh Valley railroad, nine miles east of this city, at 3:40 yesterday morning.

The names of the killed are: John McNally, engineer, Lehighton; William Toxheimer, fireman, Mauch Chunk; John McCreggor, express messenger, Wilkesbarre; Jacob Engleman, brakeman, of Easton.

Injured: D. E. Price, engineer, Easton, John Rohlfing, engineer, East Mauch Chunk; Charles H. Morgan, express messenger, Waverly; John Schoenfeldt, brakeman, Mauch Chunk, baggagemaster, slightly injured.

The accident was due to the failure of the air brakes of one of the trains to work. The express bound from New York to Buffalo reached White Haven station a little over an hour late. The train was a very heavy one, consisting of a baggage car, express, mail, two day coaches and four Pullman sleepers. John Rohlfing, of Mauch Chunk, an engineer of twenty years' experience, was in charge. John Boyle was the fireman. The engineer got an order at Fairview, the telegraph station, on the top of the Wilkesbarre mountain to proceed to siding No. 7 and lay there until the Buffalo express bound east passed him.

The Buffalo express left Wilkesbarre for New York at 3 a. m. on time. D. E. Price was at the throttle and William Texheimer was the fireman. This train was also a heavy one, consisting of mail, baggage, day coach and three Pullmans. An engine in charge of John McNally and Fred Glasser, engineer and fireman respectively, was coupled onto Pierce's engine to help him pull the train up the mountain. Both engineers had orders that they had the right of way and would pass the westbound trian at No. 7 siding. Under a heavy head of steam the two locomotives pulled out for the run up the mountain, the grade being 90 feet to the mile, and there is only a single track. Half a mile west of No. 7 siding the east bound train met the west bound. The engineer of the latter, Rohlfing, could not stop his train to reach the siding. Before reaching the switch he applied the air brakes, but they would not hold. Then he whistled for the air brakes and reversed the locomotive. But the momentum of the train was too great to make a quick stop and a few seconds later the two trains came together with a terrible crash. The engines were wrecked and the baggage, mail and express cars piled up on them.

The collision occurred in a deep rock cut and the baggage and other cars saved the passenger coaches from being wrecked. The express and mail cars were smashed into kindling wood and the baggage and mail matter scattered all over the ground. The passengers, most of whom were asleep, were aroused by the shock but none were injured, although some of them were thrown from their berths and seats. When the wrecking crews arrived some of the passengers rendered valuable assistance in getting out the dead and injured. All the dead were badly mangled and scalded by escaping steam. Engineer McNally died one hour after his removal to the hospital in this city. The passengers were brought to Wilkesbarre and sent to their destinations by way of a branch road.

At 9 o'clock last night the wreck had not yet been cleared. A detail of police are watching the mail cars. All the injured are doing well with the exception of Engineer Price. He was in a critical condition last night.

Heart Rescue in 30 Minutes.

After momentarily expecting for years that death might snap the vital cord at any minute. This is the story thousands could tell and have told of the almost Divine formula, Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. Every day chronicles the taking away of many who have not heeded nature's warnings that the heart was tired out and needed the healing that this wonderful cure gives. Heart disorders are insidious—don't trifle. This great remedy attacks the disease instantly—51

Girls It's the Truth.

Sam Jones asked the following pertinent question: "Do you know that boys are much more particular whom they go with than girls? You may think it a strange statement, but it is so. A girl will go in the streets in open day with a boy that gets drunk, but the minute a boy finds out that a girl gets drunk he won't go with her. I wish our girl would be as particular with whom they go as the boys are."

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST.

The New York INDEPENDENT, the leading weekly newspaper of the world, and one whose pages exercise the widest influence, is entering upon its fiftieth year of publication. THE INDEPENDENT emphasizes its fiftieth year by changing its form to that of a magazine, and by reducing its annual subscription price from $3.00 to $2.00; single copies from 10 to 5 cents. THE INDEPENDENT in its new form will print 3,640 pages of reading matter per year at a cost to subscribers of $2.00, while the prominent magazines, which sell for $4.00 a year, print only about 2,000 pages. The subscriber to THE INDEPENDENT gets 82 per cent. more of equally good reading matter at one-half the cost! It is not only the leading family weekly newspaper but by far the cheapest and best. A free specimen copy may be had by addressing THE INDEPENDENT, 130 Fulton Street, New York.

After News.

Here is the way an exchange goes after news: "If your wife whips you let us know and we will set you right before the world. If you have company tell us, if you are not ashamed of your visitors. If a youngster arrives at your home call on us and we will furnish a name for him or her, as the case may warrant. If you have a party or gathering of any kind bring around a cake, seven or eight pies and a side of ham, not necessarely to eat, but just to show your friendship. You needn't mind inviting us, as it may be too cool for our wardrobe. We want the news.

Election excitement is ended;
Stump speeches no longer enthral.
The men oft denounced, we discover,
Are pretty fair chaps, after all.
We're through with predictions and rallies;
We're done with the boast and the shout.
And gladly we turn to the subjects
We've often before talked about.

—Returns are still returning.

—Mackintoshes are in demand.

—Prepare for winter blasts.

—The hot sausage man is about due.

—Tree trimmers are getting in their work.

—As the days shorten the gas bills lengthen.

—D. F. Luse, of Centre Hall, has been granted a patent on a hydrant.

—Street commissioner Thomas Shaughensey is repairing East High street.

—Good health is worth more than anything else to you, and every bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains good health.

—Many of our citizens looked for the meteoric display Sunday and Monday evenings but the heavy clouds obscured the sight.

—It is said that the corn shuck is thick, the hornet's nest is near the ground, the wool on the sheep's back is unusually heavy, and all signs point to a very cold winter.

—Have you begun to think about a Thanksgiving turkey? We will necessarily have to take ours in thinking this year if some kind friend does not soon take the hint.

—A flamingo was recently killed in Cambria county. The flamingo is a rare bird in this country, as it is an inhabitant of the warm climates and is seldom seen north of Florida.

The little folks love Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Pleasant to take; perfectly harmless. Positive cure for coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma.

—"Talk about these horseless vehicles" said Uncle Si, "I see 'em long ago." "Why, pa!" began Aunt Mandy. "Oh, but I did; don't you remember the old ox cart we rode to our weddin' in?"

—The War department is perfecting arrangements whereby Christmas boxes are to be transported to the soldiers free. As it takes six weeks to reach the Philippines boxes to get there in time will have to start soon and should contain no perishable articles.

—Tuesday morning Charles Gobble, an aged citizen of Hecla Park, died at his home at that place of infirmities due to old age. He was 75 years old. The funeral was held this Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the house. Interment at Zion.

"I owe my whole life to Burdock Blood Bitters. Scrofulous sores covered my body. I seemed beyond cure. B. B. B. has made me a perfectly well woman." Mrs. Charles Hutton, Berville, Mich.

—More than 1,000 letters have been received by the soldiers who recently started a movement to secure the signatures of as many soldiers as possible to present them in album form to Miss Helen Gould, as a soldiers' testimonial of gratitude for the aid she rendered them during the war.

—Mrs. Ellen Bolden, a colored woman of Williamsport, died in that city on Monday, who claimed to be 104 years of age. She had been married three times. She survived all her husbands and her eight children. She has a sister residing at Port Royal who is said to be 90 years old.

Itchiness of the skin, horrible plague. Most everybody afflicted in one way or another. Only one safe never failing cure. Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50 cents.

—Etheline, the 7 year old daughter of Mentzer Walter, of Altoona, was badly burned Saturday morning by the accidental firing of her clothing while she, with several other children was at play in an alley back of her home. One of the child's companions lighted a rag and threw it on the fence. Little Etheline caught the blazing fragment in her hands and the fire communicated to her clothing. Her screams brought her mother, who extinguished the flames with a bucket of water. The child was found to be badly burned on the arms, back and face. Nearly all her hair was burned off. The little sufferer is out of danger.

A Distinguished Visitor.

A distinguished visitor arrived in Bellefonte on the 8:30 train Tuesday evening in the person of Brigadier General Evan Miles. He is a cousin of Councilman Harry Valentine, of this place, and will be his guest while in Bellefonte. He was met at the depot by a committee of the old citizens of the town and escorted to the home of Mrs. R. V. Pugh on West Curtin street.

General Miles was colonel of the 15th regular infantry but for bravery was promoted to Brigadier-General and commanded the extreme right of General Shafter's line in front of Santiago de Cuba.

The older residents of the town will remember it but it will be news to the younger ones that Gen. Miles was born in Bellefonte. He is a son of Richard Miles, one of the early residents, and a nephew of Joseph Miles deceased, whose late home is on east Bishop street, just opposite the Catholic church.

In 1861 Evan was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the army by Simon Cameron, the secretary of war. He fought with distinction all through the rebellion and continued in the service afterwards. He has been a great Indian campaigner and did brilliant service in Cuba.

Gen. Miles' mother was a Miss Van Cleve who was a teacher in the Bellefonte academy when Robert Valentine and his generation were boys, more than fifty years ago.

The General is on his way to San Francisco and will spend only a few days here. It is twenty years since he visited Bellefonte before.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Al. W. Martin's big company of sixty white and colored people will present "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Garman's opera house, at this place, Tuesday evening, Nov. 22, with a strong dramatic cast, among them Milt. G. Barlow, the famous negro actor, as "Uncle Tom." Mr. Martin's company is an excellent one, both in dramatic strength and numbers. The scenic effects are gorgeous and shows a thrilling floating ice scene, showing the escape of Eliza over the Ohio river, with man-eating bloodhounds in hot pursuit. A steamboat and collision between the Natches and R. E. Lee. Plantation scenes, St. Clair's residence by moonlight, and a grand tableau, transformation of Eva in the golden realms. The most gigantic free street parade will be given at noon, being fully a quarter of a mile long, will be one of the striking features, is composed of chariots, old log cabin, horses, Shetland ponies, donkeys, one white band and two colored bands, including the famous whangdoodle pickaninnies and the giant drum major "Rastus," standing over eight feet high.

Centre Is a Republican County.

That this county has a normal Republican majority the following official figures demonstrate: Four years ago the Republican vote cast for governor was 4787; the Democratic vote was 3966. Two years ago McKinley received in the county 4870 votes and Bryan 4460. This fall the Republican vote in the county was 3485; the Democratic vote being 4241. Two years ago the Prohibition vote was 255, this year it was 614. The total vote two years ago was 9585, this year it was 8340, leaving the voters who remained at home 1245; the Democratic vote being nearly all out, as well as the Prohibition vote, it is easily seen that this county is Republican by from 500 to 700 majority. Whose fau't it was that the Republican vote was not gotten to the polls will be an after consideration by the honest Republicans of the county.

An Intellectual Treat.

One of the finest lectures ever listened to in Bellefonte was the one delivered Wednesday evening in the opera house by the Rev. Ward Beecher Pickard. Those who failed to hear it missed a rare intellectual treat. We hear nothing but praise of it from all. The speaker held the closest attention of the audience for two hours while he explained the wonderful "House that Jack Built," a model structure that all of us should try to copy. Jack, represented a young man starting in life to build a character. The lecturer abounded in good advice, together with an abundance of wit. The manager of the course is to be congratulated on securing so talented a man to add luster to the season's entertainments.

The Governor Entertains.

Governor D. H. Hastings and his family spent last week at the club house of the Nittany Rod and Gun Club at Hecla Park on the Central railroad of Pennsylvania.

During his stay at that pleasant resort the Governor entertained the following distinguished guests: Frank Thomson, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; David Martin, of Philadelphia, Secretary of the Commonwealth; J. W. Latta, Secretary of Internal Affairs; Horatio Hackett Register of Wills at Philadelphia; Attorney-General McCormick and Hon. Henry Cochran, of Williamsport. They enjoyed themselves in hunting over the large game preserve shooting quail, pheasant and other game.

Burglars Foiled.

Wednesday about 3 o'clock a. m. burglars gained an entrance to the residence of Mrs. Annie Taylor, widow of the late Hugh Taylor, sr., on east Howard street, by prying open a front window. While going through the parlor they upset a rocking chair the noise of which alarmed the house. Seeing that they were discovered they made good their escape. There were two of them and they were distinctly seen by members of the family. They failed to get any plunder

A Discontented Wife.

Dissatisfied with the income her husband was making, Mrs. Peter Hansom, of South Renovo; left home about ten days ago and has not been heard from since. Mrs. Hansom once before left her home, and after three weeks absence, came back. Her husband is an industrious man, and is employed in the railroad yards at that place. The three children of the couple are now with the husband.

Oyster Supper at Howard.

The K. L. C. E. Society of the United Evangelical church of Howard, will hold an Oyster supper at the home of F. S. Dunham on Main St., on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24th 1898. Colonel Roosevelt's Story of the Rough Riders

On the morning after his election to the governorship of New York, Colonel Roosevelt stated in an interview that his plans for the immediate future includes the writing of some magazine articles. This statement referred to his "Story of the Rough Riders," which he now engaged in writing, and which is to run serially for six months in Scribner's Magazine, beginning in the January number. Colonel Roosevelt is a man of extraordinary physical and mental vigor. After a campaign of a month in Cuba, under conditions that laid so many men upon sick beds, he plunged with undiminished vigor into the excitement of the political campaign which resulted in his election. And yet, under this great pressure, he summoned the energy and mental resources to do some of the most brilliant writing of his life. Those who have seen the advance sheets of Colonel Roosevelt's story say it has not only the snap and characteristic vigor of the author's personality, but possess notable literary qualities. And during all the pressure of political obligations he still found time to devote to the selection of one hundred illustrations for his story out of the great mass of photographs taken at Tampa, in Cuba, and at Montauk Point, by special photographers.

Ole Bull's Castle.

Near Orleanda, Pa., is the ruined castle built by Ole Bull to be the federal seat of the colony of Norwegians which he established there. The domain covered 125,000 acres of mountain and forest land and was situated mainly in Potter county, near what is known as Kettle Creek. Beside his castle the great violinist undertook to build a town with a church, hotel, public and business buildings and the like, and finally about 1,200 of his countrymen with their families came to take up their abode in his community. But it did not thrive and the innocent musician lost all his money he invested in the enterprise. It was started nearly half a century ago, but, except a little hamlet containing a handful of inhabitants, nothing is left of it. The castle is a ruin, shattered are the walls of Norembega, with the owl and the bat in disputed tenancy. The minstrel afterwards took up their abode in the Western Lake country, and dying there, "sleeps afar, like Scipio, buried by the upbraiding shore," but his ruined Pennsylvania castle and vanished feudatorie are his most impressive memorial.

—Telephone men are busy just now in Bellefonte.

—The adjutant general has the state arsenal workmen busy on overcoats. These heavy garments are for National Guard use and as rapidly as finished will be packed ready for quick shipment to any regiment requiring them. The organization of the new guard necessitated some large expenditures for military equipments.

—A Houtzdale girl, who is very fond of kittens, etc., captured as she supposed, "a very lovely cat" on last Sabbath evening, but which turned out to be a black one with white stripes down its back. The girl is not yet in presentable condition for company, but she's awfully turned against cats

—A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying and exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. What is needed is that which is cleansing, soothing, protecting and healing. Such a remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. To test it a trial size for 10 cents or the large for 50 cents is mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York. Druggists keep it. The Balm when placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. A cold in the head vanishes quickly.

Good Men Wanted.

The following in regard to accountants is equally true to all professions and trades:

Every little while some pessimistic alarmist comes out with the doleful wail that the ranks of bookkeepers, clerks and office helpers of all kinds are "overcrowded" and that the employment offices of our great cities are thronged with capable accountants who are seeking positions in vain.

Such stuff is false as it is mischievous. There is not a city in the Union where really capable accountants and efficient office men are not in sharp demand. Everywhere business men report that they have extreme difficulty in getting first class, steady and reliable men to do the work in their office.

If one will take the trouble to look up the men who throng employment offices and who are willing to work at all, at most any price, he will find that there is some kind of a "screw lose" with every one of them. Some are dissipated, some are drifting ne'er do wells or bragging Jacks, who cannot hold any kind of a position for more than a week. Others are lazy, slovenly, hopeless wrecks of men, who are looking for an "easy job" and imagine that bookkeeping is about as easy any other.

Some are broken down business proprietors, who have made "ducks and drakes" of a fortune left them by provident parents. These men nearly always pose as bookkeepers on the strength of their former experiences in business, but nine times out of ten they have never actually kept a set of books and could not do so were they to try.

There is, of course, always a host of shiftless, incompetent people of the classes we have mentioned who are looking for positions, but their "ear marks" are pretty well known by the employers, who wisely let them alone.

But for the clean, energetic, capable, intelligent, young office man, there is always an opening. The great business employers of the city are glad enough to find such men.—Southern Educator.

Boycotted by Women.

D. B. Brisbin Tuesday resigned as postmaster at Centre Hall, this county. Three months ago he and William Snyder were arrested, charged with a serious crime by a 13 year old girl. Snyder is now in jail here, while Brisbin is under bond for his appearance in court. Following the arrest the women of Centre Hall instituted a boycott on the postoffice, and further petitioned the Postmaster General for the removal of Brisbin as postmaster. A postoffice inspector was sent to the town to look into the matter and on his return to Washington a request was sent Postmaster Brisbin to resign with which he complied.—Pittsburg Times

Death of a Native of Centre County.

Dr. J. B. Laird, a native of Centre county, died at his home in Bellwood on Saturday, aged 73 years. He was a surgeon in the rebellion, and after the war practiced medicine at Milesburg and Houtzdale, afterwards removing to Bellwood. One son H. G. Laird, of Bellwood, and two daughters, Miss Annie, at home, and Mrs. Elizabeth Elway, of Braddock, survives. He was a life long member of the Presbyterian church, and a very excellent gentleman.

—Union Thanksgiving services will be held in the St. John's Reformed church, on Thursday the 24th at 10:30 A. M. Dr H. C. Holway will preach the sermon.

—The compulsory educational law will likely be tested in court by Kittanning citizens. Warrants have been issued for parents of children out of school, but attorneys assert that a justice of the peace has no power to impose the prescribed penalty.

—We are in receipt of an invitation to attend the Grand Thanksgiving Select Assembly to be given by the Undine Fire Co., No. 2 of Bellefonte, in the armory of Co. M, Wednesday evening Nov. 23rd, 1898. There will be music by the Undine orchestra, band concert at 8:30 and grand march at 9 o'clock. The price of tickets are 50 cents and the proceeds go toward paying for the handsome new building now being erected on Bishop street.
